

WRIGHT'S LATEST STORY SETS PAGE FOR OTHER BOOKS

Papini's "Life of Christ" Also In Heavy Demand At Public Library

The popularity of Harold Bell Wright's latest book, "The Mine With the Iron Door," has not been decreased any in the last according to information received from Appleton Public Library. Because people are fond of books that deal with adventure and the out-of-doors, coupled with the fact that Harold Bell Wright has written the story, the book is in great demand. "Life of Christ" by Papini is just as much in demand as ever, but because the books are of such an entirely different nature, it would be difficult to say whether Wright's book or the "Life of Christ" is the most popular. It may be said, however, that without a doubt these books are the most called for in the library.

Americans have been interested for many years in Labrador's famous missionary doctor, Wilfred T. Grenfell, and in his accounts of the work he has done among the people of the far north. His new book, "Northern Neighbors," is a series of 13 short stories based upon actual experiences of the author's life. Most of the stories are about the fisher people of the north, afloat and ashore, and still others tell of Eskimos and trappers.

MAN OF ACTION
Dr. Grenfell is equally the writer and man of action. He not only fights the hardships of his chosen people, but has discovered beauty in their simple lives, and conveys to his readers the inspiration which he himself has found in them.

It is said that in these stories of adventure and the conquest of the elements there is a quality which will give courage to thousands who, although they have never seen the rocks of Labrador, still have their own battles to fight.

"A Lost Lady" by Willa Cather and "Damaged Souls" by Bradford, also were in demand. These books are some of the recent additions to the library.

Most of the children are expending their efforts on the state reading circle list, from which school children must select certain books to read and report on in school work. The names of those who complete the required amount of reading is posted in the children's department of the library. About twenty names have been posted on this bulletin board so far; seven of the children are from the Fourth ward school.

Thousands Of Gentlemen Now Undergoing Tragedy Suffered By Russians

Berlin — Thousands of German gentlemen are now going through the tragedy which Russian women of the same class have suffered for several years. Widows of officers and government officials, women with small pensions and limited incomes from investments, find themselves unable to buy the plainest food with their depreciated marks.

A few days ago the aged widow of a once prominent physician and her invalid daughter were found almost dead from hunger in their home.

BANDITS SHOOT UP SHEBOYGAN SALOON, HEAD FOR APPLETON

Police Here Search For Highwaymen Who Shot 2 Men And Stole $500

Two men were shot in a holdup in a saloon at Sheboygan at 6:45 Sunday evening, when two young bandits robbed the establishment of about $500. They escaped in an automobile in the direction of Appleton. It was reported to the Appleton police. One of the men bartender Richard Moeller was shot twice in the left leg and the other Otto Pfeiffer, a patron, was shot in the stomach. The latter is in a serious condition.

Manitowish police report that the robbers passed through that city in a Cadillac automobile and were headed, it appeared, for Appleton. One of the robbers is between 25 and 30 years of age, is about 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighs between 170 and 180 pounds, wears a gray cap, brown overcoat and a dark suit. The other was probably between 20 and 25 years, and about 5 feet 4 inches in height and weighs about 165 pounds. He is of a stocky build and at the time of the holdup wore a greenish cap, dark suit and dark overcoat.

which had been stripped of every conceivable article. The mother had done needlework as long as she was able. She was too proud to ask charity, and the doctors who were called by neighbors to attend her said both the mother and daughter if left alone, would have been dead in another 24 hours.

In an effort to alleviate the condition of such persons and protect them from unscrupulous second-hand dealers, a number of philanthropic Berlin women have organized a fair where second-hand articles may be offered for sale. The owners may act as their own salesagents, or entrust their wares to representatives of the committee.

Kotal Is Hero To 75 Boys At Y.M.C.A. Party

For an interesting and enthusiastic Sunday afternoon meeting probably none has heretofore equalled the gathering at the Y. M. C. A. boys division Sunday afternoon. Eddie Kotal, Lawrence's star football man, just recently chosen as all conference quarterback, spoke to about 75 boys, encouraged them to be good sportsmen, keep strict training rules, and "follow the ball."

At the close of the short talk the boys were given an opportunity to ask questions and many varied were the questions showered upon the Lawrence star.

Following the meeting a fire was started in the fire place and soon the popcorn was popping as merrily as had the questions. The football man remained the center of attraction, however, and it was late in the afternoon before he was able to break away from the crowd of happy hero-worshippers.

APPLETON'S BIG NEED IS PEACE IN WORLD, BEALE SAYS

Can Disentangle Appleton From World Problems, Forum Speaker Declares

"The story of the exploration and settlement of this continent is one of the most romantic stories in the history of mankind," said the Rev. Charles H. Beale, pastor of Grand Ave. Congregational church of Milwaukee in his address on "Frontier Answering Where We Are At and Where Do We Go From Here?" before the People's forum at Lawrence Memorial hall Sunday evening.

"One hundred years ago," he said, "a few groups of people were clinging to the Atlantic coast very much as barnacles cling to a vessel. Before them was a great unexplored continent. Here were savage beasts and still more savage men."

"But these people, these pioneers, were not satisfied to stay on the Atlantic coast. After a few years the more adventurous spirits began to move west. They penetrated what is now the middle states, crossed the Mississippi valley and finally reached the western plains."

"REACHED MOUNTAINS

"Unhindered by obstacles these pioneers pressed on. Some lost their lives in the forest, some died of starvation, while others were killed by wild beasts and Indians. The survivors continued on until they reached the foothills of the Rocky mountains."

"Now, some said it is time to stop. We do not criticize you, they said, but it is time to stop. They were the stay-at-home conservative kind of people. But they went on and so finally the tide of emigration reached the Pacific ocean."

"But now there are no longer any frontiers. We have covered the continent and other people have penetrated farther Africa and the interior of China. The surface of the earth has been pretty well mapped out. Geographically, frontiers hardly exist."

"OTHER FRONTIERS

"But there are other realms and other worlds still to be discovered. In the realm of intellect there are still frontiers and always will be frontiers."

"The speaker said in the realm of chemistry and physics there is a frontier and told of attending a two days meeting at a Minnesota college at which each professor told each in his way the progress that had been made in the last 25 years in his department and the progress that was being made in the solution of problems."

"Psychology has also a frontier according to the speaker who said in the progress that had been made in recent years. The realm of industry and the political realm were both touched on and the speaker read a paragraph from Harper's Magazine written by a prominent writer in which he said, 'we will never extend these frontiers or settle these problems by warfare.'"

"WORLD FRONTIERS

"I want to speak to you," said the Rev. Beale, "about certain frontiers in which we are all interested—national and international policies. Why venture out into such wide seas? Why not be content to speak of the welfare of Appleton, and Wisconsin and the United States?" Because the welfare of Appleton, and Wisconsin and the United States is wrapped up in the welfare of the world and you cannot disentangle them. One of the greatest needs of Appleton tonight is quiet and order and peace in the world."

In mentioning the names of Washington and Lincoln who took their places in world affairs at the appointed time the speaker included the name of Woodrow Wilson of whom he said there never was a more genuine prophet. "The other day when he gave us that message against which some people complained, it was still the voice of the prophet that rang out," he said.

The discussion that followed the address involved the world court, the League of Nations, the attitude of the United States towards European countries relative to rendering assistance, and President Coolidge's stand.

Put Honey In Radiator To Stop Freezing

Milwaukee — Honey and water equal parts by volume, make an unequalled non-freezing solution to place into radiators of automobiles in winter, according to speakers at the annual Wisconsin State Beekeepers' convention here.

The practice, however, was not encouraged by any of the speakers, who asserted they would rather call for the rating trade.

If honey is to be used for radiators, it was suggested by James G. Gurn, president of the organization, that only low grade and low priced honey be utilized. In any case to make a satisfactory solution for radiators, the equal mixture should be first boiled, he said.

"There is no use of employing any non-freezing solution in leaky radiators," Mr. Gurn asserted. "Connections must be absolutely tight as honey will find its way through where water will go. I can give facts and figures that would convince anyone save the alcohol dealer, that honey is a non-freezing solution. To the beekeeper whose honey is worth but ten cents a pound retail, I would suggest that he cater to the radiator trade."

During the morning session of the convention today a discussion of the legislative program of the organization was had. Many delegates favoring the state legislature for financial aid for the organization.

Results of "honey week" also were discussed.

CARRIERS ASK HELP OF FARMER PATRONS

Cooperation With Mailmen Is Needed During Christmas Holiday Rush

Not the least busy among postal employees these days are the rural mail carriers. With local and foreign advertising literature and catalogs flooding the mails, and rural patrons helping to swell them by sending Christmas parcels and ordering others, the carrier is finding it difficult in making his trips on schedule.

They are asking rural patrons to cooperate with them by following a few suggestions. During the Christmas rush at least, patrons might buy a large supply of stamps so that they may stamp their own letters and cards instead of giving the carrier money and leaving him to attach the postage.

Patrons can save the carriers a good deal of time by having the exact change ready when they receive C. O. D. parcels which they have ordered or when they purchase money orders. It is impossible to carry along sufficient change to accommodate everyone on the route, and it is inconvenient to say the least, they maintain, to take the money along and bring the exact change for every such patron on the route.

From now on until Christmas patrons should watch for the carriers and be at the mail box when he arrives to sign receipts for insured mail or pay for C. O. D. parcels instead of compelling the carrier to take the packages along and carry them for several days.

SOIL TESTS REVEAL NEED FOR PHOSPHATE

A soils meeting held on the William Laurs farm at Shiocton Friday revealed the results of tests made of various samples of soil in that vicinity.

H. W. Ulsparger, of the University of Wisconsin extension division, explained the results of tests made on four farms. The analysis showed that all four farms were deficient in phosphates. The soil needed acid or rock phosphate and lime in order to make it produce what it is capable of producing. It was not lacking in other necessary elements.

Crop experiences of the four farmers bore out the truth of the soil analysis. This is a service which the university gives the farmers for a fee of only $5 a farm.

TO REFORM THE COAL INDUSTRY
Nothing would please the public more than the reorganization of the coal industry in the manner and to the extent suggested by Mr. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, in an address at the banquet of the Illinois Mine Institute in St. Louis. Mr. Lewis went out of his way a little, as usual, to depreciate the work done by the United States Coal commission, but he talked to the point in saying that the coal industry has to be made right.

"Hence, there devolves," he said, "upon us within the industry, upon us who have grown up with it, the heavy responsibility in the not distant future of devising some industrial plan that will be productive of public weal and still be fair to the operator who has his money invested and the worker who devotes his time and labor to the industry."

Federal and state governments have not succeeded so far in actually working out a practical plan to reorganize the coal industry. With the operators and workers striving to perfect a plan, reorganization should not be as nearly hopeless as it has seemed to be.

The press of the United States, and with it the people, demand the problems of the coal industry be solved in fairness to three parties—the public, the operators and the workers. The operators and miners should devote the next year to evolving a practical reorganization plan. There should be an end to strikes and lockouts in this industry, as there should also be in transportation.

There should be an end to fuel shortages, and coal should be put in the hands of the consumer at a reasonable price. The operators and miners are in a better position to solve the problem than politicians. It is their final opportunity. If they do not act, and act effectively, the politicians will.

THE PICK OF CHRISTMAS GOODS

Most of the purchases made so far by holiday shoppers are of useful goods, chiefly wearing apparel, household furniture and equipment, musical instruments and radios. The autumnal recession in manufacture, which is a normal, seasonal condition, occupying every year, caused some delay in the buying of regular Christmas articles, but the Christmas trade is improving, now that the public is assured that times will be good next year.

From the present time on until Christmas the holiday shopping should be brisk. The early shoppers will obtain the bargains. They will get the choice of the wonderful variety of goods displayed, and theirs will be the additional benefit of low prices. There is more money in the country than ever. Regular savings are large. Christmas savings are the record in total. The people are prosperous and thrifty. Those who are wise will not delay their buying.

THE WAR'S COSTS

Europe owes the United States eleven billions, including somewhat less than half of that prodigious sum which Great Britain has undertaken to pay. Although Great Britain's payments have begun, there are economists who hold that she has covenanted to perform an impossible task. However that may be, a Washington writer counts the whole eleven billions as practically lost to this country and said:

The debt amounts to one-fifth of the total value of all real estate in America, or one-eighth of the value of all city property. It is nearly three times the cost of the Civil war. Imagine Uncle Sam, a banker, lending to all the inhabitants of the world $4 each as they paid past his window every minute. Such a procession would have had to begin its march in the year 1. Marching at the rate of one man a minute, the end of that procession would not reach the bank window for nearly 1500 years if it were to carry off as much as Europe took in borrowing eleven billions.

An English statistician could offer more depressing figures still, for Great Britain loaned her allies several billions more than she borrowed from us and sees little or no prospect of any return while she is undertaking to pay the United States and her huge war costs in general. The British statement would be the more depressing because in order to pay off the huge sums a system of grinding taxation has been resorted to such as we have never dreamed of in this country.

TRADE PROSPECTS FOR NEXT YEAR

Bankers and business men should follow the example set by Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, and overcome the unwarranted sentiment as to next year's commerce. The people imagine that trade will be unsteady next year, and it is probably a fact that some merchants and manufacturers have a like thought.

Nobody who questions the indications of next year's business can give any good reason for his feeling of uncertainty. "It's a presidential year." "Trade is always dull during a campaign." This is the talk. Why should business be slack or halting during a presidential year? We have long ago discounted this upheaval. Does business depend on politicians for its stability or prosperity? Does not good business benefit everybody and every interest, and, this being so, cannot the public prevent the politicians from injuring business? Are the politicians going to dictate to the people, or the people to the politicians?

Plans signify that next year will open up with great business projects under way. The construction industry is the key to industrial activity. Taking the agricultural group in its entirety, it is better off financially than it has been for several years, and it is in such excellent financial shape that it will be in the market next year as a purchaser. There has been steady employment for more than a year, and the public has more capital than at any previous time.

The fundamentals really promise, as Judge Gary says, better times next year than this. Everything points to a large volume of trade. The only doubt is the sentiment which hinges on politics. With every basic condition flattering as to next year's commerce, it is within the power of business men and farmers, bankers and manufacturers, it is within the power of the people, to have practically record trade. We cannot afford to allow politics to halt or unsettle our prosperity.

GENERAL SAWYER ON POLITICS

In order to stay in public life or get ahead in politics, one must be hardboiled. Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, physician to former President Harding, so said to members of the Southern Homeopathic association at their convention in Washington. From recent experiences, he added, he learned that it is wise not to talk.

Dr. Sawyer evidently is not a politician; evidently he is not hardboiled. But he has been in public life long enough to know that many of the successful statesmen and politicians succeed almost solely by hardboiling. Politicians do not sidetrack opportunities to talk, and they are not famous for diffidence. It is their political talk as often and as much as they can, but they reserve their subjects, the occasions and the thoughts, as not to give offense to the voters. They prefer to please the people with what they say, but they are satisfied if they do not please.

The statesmen and politicians who keep their ears to the crowd are the hard-boiled type. Their one object is to hold their jobs. They are not so hard-boiled as to slipper that they can accommodate their views and schemes to any situation without feeling any rays of consciousness.

It is significant, however, that the men in public life who are really big, and who command the respect of the people, and have convictions of their own, and follow ethical standards, talk only when they have something to say and they care more for principle than position or applause.

Health Talks

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

VARICOSE ULCER
An ulcer is a raw sore. A varicose ulcer is such a sore on the leg of one who has varicose veins. Thousands of people with varicose veins keep their ulcers for years on end just because they imagine the ulcers cannot or should not be healed.
Now it does seem strange that anybody should imagine that an ulcer should not be healed, doesn't it? I mean it seems strange if you haven't any such trouble yourself. Yet in this great army of "unfortunates with varicose ulcers" there is one division of sadly unfortunates who actually fear to have their ulcers healed. Read this letter:
"My Dear Dr. Brady:
"I have a large varicose ulcer on my leg from the ankle half way up to the knee. I suffer a great deal of pain and itching from it. My family doctor strongly advises me to have it cured, says it can be cured, and that after it is cured a rubber stocking should be worn. But dozens of people tell me that if I get it cured it will go to other parts of the body and that I won't live long. Please tell me which is right."
"Respectfully yours,"

Another mystery I despair of solving is, why do folks employ a physician, presumably paying a fee for his advice or attendance, and then wish his advice against the gratuitous advice of "dozens of people?"
Every varicose ulcer can and should be healed. In a few cases, however, long neglect or mismanagement, or self treatment, which amounts to the same thing, leads to the development of cancer in the site of the ulcer; then the chance of cure becomes problematic, in saying that every varicose ulcer can be healed I do not mean to imply that I know of a specific cure or remedy or method of treatment. The treatment must be determined by the individual requirements in each case. I have nothing to send to readers about this. I mean to say merely that every varicose ulcer can be healed by proper surgical treatment, such as any good physician is competent to apply. And by surgical treatment I do not mean any kind of operation necessarily, though in some cases a little intelligent operative treatment starts the healing process in a long indolent ulcer, for instance, the skidful (painless) trimming down of exuberant granulation-tissue (proud flesh) which is preventing the film of skin from growing in around the edges of the ulcer. An ulcer heals by a growth of skin over it from the edges, much as a wound heals.

The pain and discomfort and disability produced by varicose ulcers are mostly unnecessary and must be accorded to wifely neglect or avoidance of proper medical care in most cases. Victims of this condition harbor not only such misinformation as that mentioned in the letter above but seem to delight in "trying" all sorts of remedies or treatments, at great cost, too, while they worry along without medical advice.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Iodin in Drinking Water
I notice you are an advocate of the use of iodine in drinking water in this district. Please furnish me the formula to be used, either in drinking water or otherwise, for the purpose of preventing goitre and other effects of an iodine shortage in the water or diet of adults and children.—D. D. L.

Answer—Each child and adult may take one or two drops of common tincture of iodine in not less than a pint of water once a week the water round about the neck in summer or if there is already a slight enlargement of the thyroid gland (goitre) a child over 5 years of age may take one drop of the tincture of iodine in not less than a pint of drinking water every day for six weeks now and again in the spring. Tincture of iodine is the common brown liquid so much used as a first aid disinfectant for wounds; it was formerly spilled iodine. Certain cities are now putting minute quantities of iodine in the municipal water supply for a few weeks each year to insure a sufficient iodine ration to all the people. Rochester, N. Y., has adopted this excellent plan. I believe it will help to keep Rochester folk young.

---that's all there is to life

THEN IT HAPPENED
We hope he's reached that promised land afar.
We'd hate to think of him in realms below.
We watched a fellow try to crank a car.
And murmured, "Whassa matter? Won't she go?"

Understand a number of folks intend to write letters of congratulation to the county board for its action on the dance hall law. They had better give special thanks to men like Harwood, Ryan, Tracy, Grant and Schultz who Saturday saved the ordinance from a permanent death, when a few backsliders tried to table it.

Dear Rollo: As a driver of an automobile I ask you, why do news-papermen persist in making those anatomical blunders? I see by the papers that two Madison residents were injured, one by being hit in the business district and one in the residence section. Possibly had they been struck in the suburbs or the outskirts, they might have had a chance. Wotta life, wotta life for journeyman!

Health Hint
If you would avoid having other people guess your age, don't say that you remember when "Nellie Gray," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," and "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" were popular.

Now that you are again reminded of taxpaying time, you might as well make up your mind to the fact that two things are inevitable: Taxes when you get property and rheumatism when you get 60.

Grandma's Boy has nothing on the Gentleman Financier that stepped up to a pedestrian and asked, "Pardon me, sir, but have you seen a policeman around here?" The pedestrian answered, "No, sir, I'm sorry." "Well, then," continued the other, "will you kindly hand over your pocketbook?"

Fame is an evanescent thing. Who, for instance, remembers the name of the lady or gentleman that established the high record in the recent Marathon dancing contests? But there is one man America cannot forget, try as it may, and he is the Author of the One Half of One Per Cent Law.

Christmas Suggestion
I'm going to give my sweetie a day-enjoyment so I'll feel at home.

The funniest things we ever saw was the pedestrian who beat the police car over the crossing at an arterial highway. On his face was a gleam of indescribable complacency as he ambled slowly past the front of the car.

Climate, Race Suicide Factors

(Dr. J. R. Miner, in American Journal of Hygiene.)
The relation of climate to climatic and other factors presents the results of an extensive statistical analysis of the relation of suicide to climatic and racial factors, and to industrialism, occupation, urban conditions, age and sex. It has long been recognized that the suicide rate is higher among the Nordic race than among Alpine or Mediterranean peoples. Mixed peoples usually have a higher rate than either of the pure races to which they belong. Foreigners in New York show a higher suicide rate than in the countries from which they came.

The lowest rate is found in Ireland and the highest in Saxony, while the rate varies in different parts of France according to the racial composition of the population. Among Asiatic peoples, the Japanese and Chinese rates are high, while in India it is low (4.5 per 100,000). India appears to be the only country where female suicides exceed the male.

The general trend of suicide rates has been upward during the last century, but the higher rates tend to become stabilized. Germany, France, Denmark and Sweden have high rates. Britain, Norway and the Netherlands low rates. In the United States the rates are lowest in the south and highest in the west.

Winnebagoes Had Supply Of Sheiks

(From The Wisconsin Magazine.)
As clothing the early Winnebago wore a breechcloth, moccasins, leggings and robes of dressed skins. Simple fabrics of bark fiber and rushes were probably also worn. The advent of the French trader added to their dress but at all times we find both men and women combing their hair straight back, parted in the middle and tied behind their heads in braids, later decorated by ribbons.

Thomas Anderson, who spent a winter trading with them on the Rock river in 1802, said that they were the most filthy, most obstinate and ugliest people of any Indian tribe. When the French came they added blankets to their garb, white for winter and bright colors for the summer.

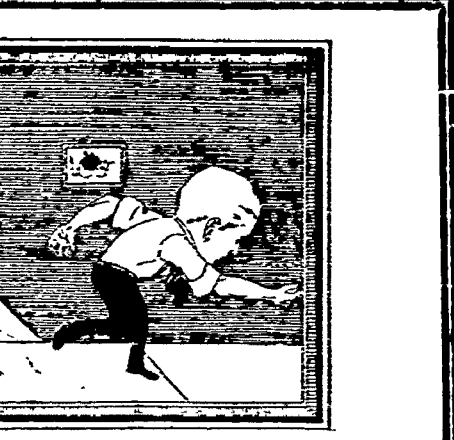

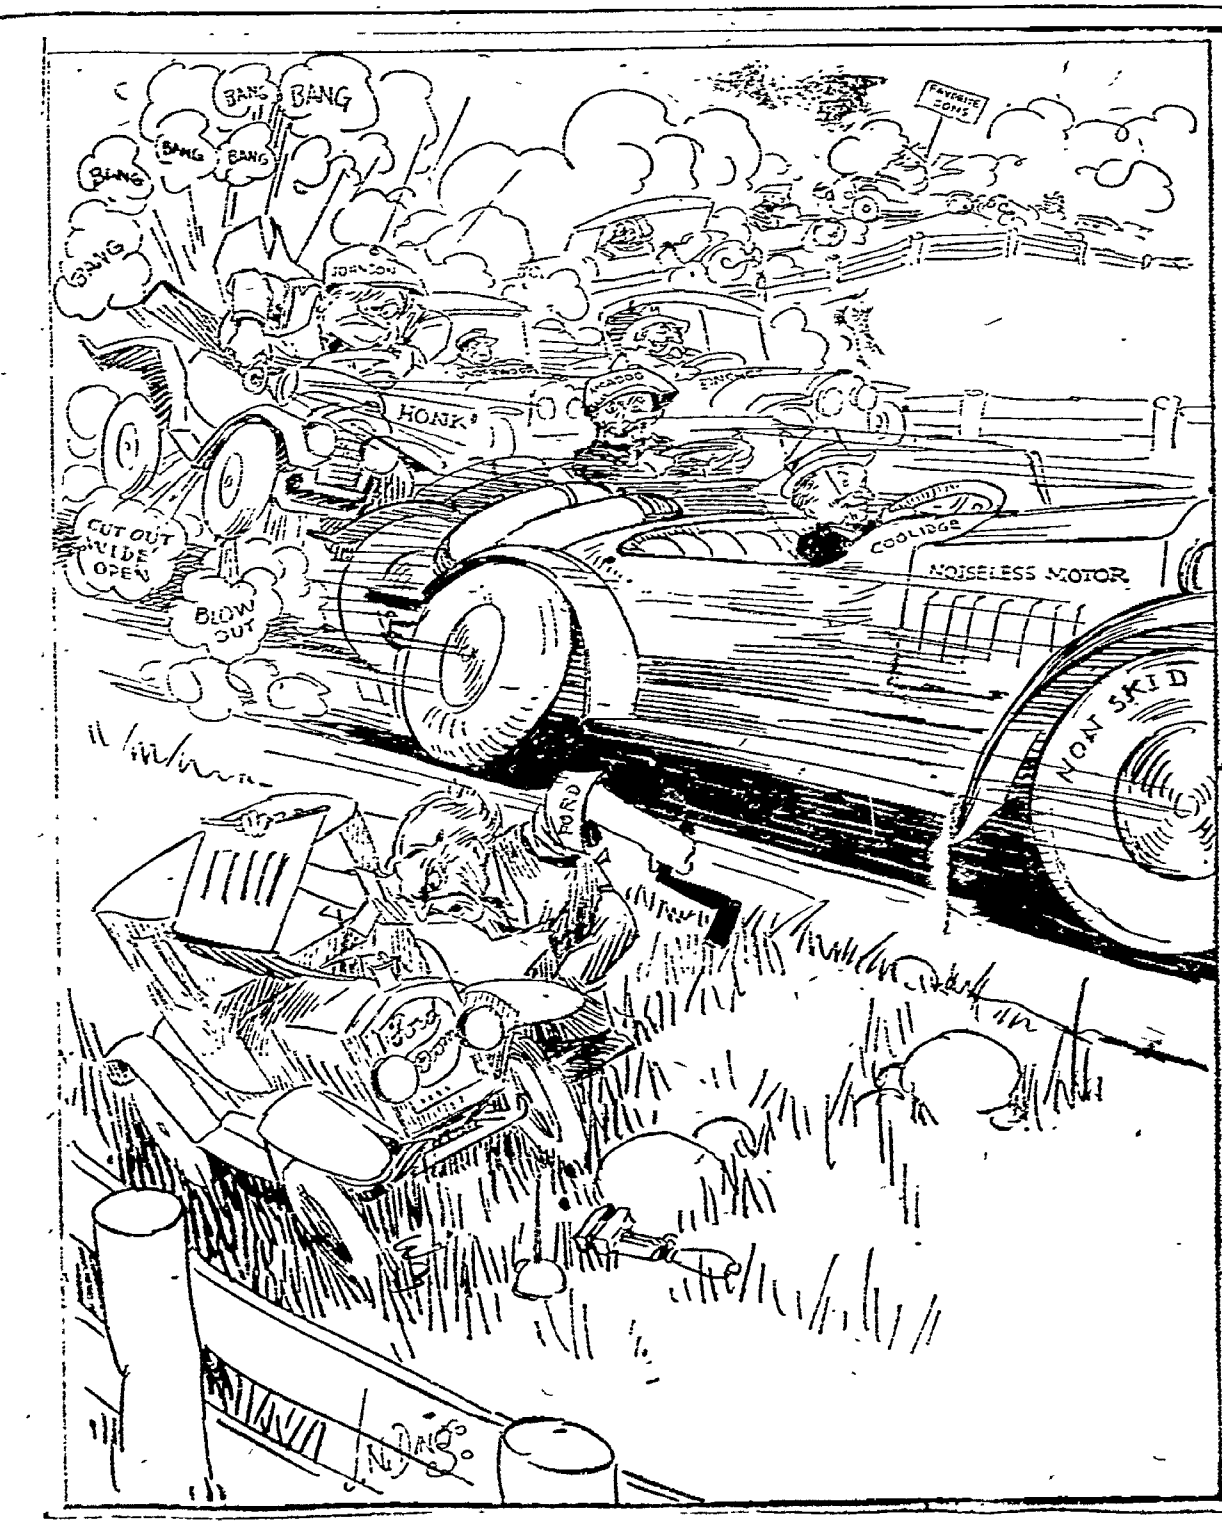

In the governor's reception room in the state capitol at Madison, the surrender of the noted chief Red Bird, which ended the Winnebago war in 1825, is cleverly depicted. Red Bird, the prisoner, is pictured as having one side of his face painted red, the other intermixed with green and white, clothed in a Yankton suit of dressed elkskin, perfectly white and soft as a kid glove.

It consisted of a jacket, ornamented with a fringe of the same material, the sleeves being cut to fit his finely formed arms and the leggings also of dressed elkskin with a fringe of the same material and enriched with blue beads.

On his feet he wears moccasins and on each shoulder, in place of an epaulette, is fastened a stuffed red bird. Around his neck is a collar of blue wampum, beautifully mixed with white, the claws of a panther, with their points inward, is seen at the rim of the collar.

Around his neck hang strands of wampum of various lengths and he holds a war pipe in his hand, ornamented with dried horse hair and feathers of birds. Here we have the Winnebago dandy.

S'MATTER HENRY, WON'T SHE START?

A Ford on Rolls-Royce Lines

That would describe an Eagle Shirt of Parsee Prints. It doesn't boast of as splendid fabric as you find in an Eagle Shirt of silk, for instance. The cloth is a pleasingly printed percale that stands the stress and strain. But its "lines" are the same as the finest Eagle Shirt; for Parsee Prints at $2.00 is cut over the same patterns as an Eagle Shirt of Saticoy Silk at $10.00—and sewn as beautifully.

Fire Escapes On White House

(From Popular Mechanics.)
Millions of visitors from all parts of the world have made pilgrimages to the White House in Washington but few of them have inspected any of its mechanical marvels. Although neither lightning rods nor fire escapes are visible from the outside, they are there just the same but in such strange forms that they hardly would be recognized if seen. The fire escapes, for example, look for all the world like miniature howitzers mounted on the roof of the executive mansion. Weighing 200 pounds apiece and anchored from a balcony by means of extendable steel arms, the metal drums would never attract the attention of anyone hunting for steel ladders, safety ropes or exit elevators. Pulling the chain at the bottom of the cylinders causes them to open and release an endless chain that fastens around the waist and slowly lowers the load to the ground.

Mayoring City Is No Job For Woman, Says One Who Tried

Executive Of Utah Town Could Worry Bootleggers But She Didn't Understand Water Mains, Paving And Drainage

Salina, Utah — No widow pays for city water in this town.

No home lacks happiness for want of coal or groceries.

Bootleggers are so scarce prohibition agents never waste their time stopping off.

Last Christmas this town of 1300 raised $500 for the poor. Five caroling troops made rounds of the community during the holidays.

In two years there has been one case of a girl smoking cigarettes. It was at a party and "she heard about it."

The "she" is Mayor Stena Scourup, club woman, school teacher, tall and blond.

Miss Scourup is Utah's only woman mayor, now completing her first term of office and, trust her, her last. Her successor will take office Jan. 1. Oh, no! Not that the people of this town have written him to Mayor Scourup's political career, nor that "her honor" is afraid she couldn't make a second time. It's just because there are some things about "mayoring" that don't appeal to this tall, efficient-looking woman and—well, she likes teaching school better.

LET GEORGE DO IT

This business of being mayor is no woman's job, if you hearken to Miss Scourup.

"Possibly you know how dull things get to be in a farming community and I thought the race for mayor would break the monotony," is the way she tries to excuse her participation in politics. "Really I had enough work as it was, but my friends urged me to go in and make the race."

Mayor Scourup is too modest to mention that she ran against her brother, P. C. Scourup, who has been city councilman for years, and beat him by 14 votes.

"I do not mean to say," after carefully explaining she did not want the office another term, "that a woman is not as good an executive as a man. I presided over meetings of five men and got along just beautifully, but I couldn't understand water mains, or irrigation, ditches or paving and didn't care much whether I understood them or not. But there were other avenues of municipal endeavor which Mayor Scourup did understand."

MORAL CLEANING

Since this woman has been presiding at the city hall, Salina has been given about the stiffest housecleaning morally that a town ever has had.

Her mayorship put smoking by juveniles under ban and it remained there. On her orders the city marshal not only arrested every boy under 18 who was caught smoking, but he put the official ban on those not yet 21. The marshal not only "pinched" them once, but she kept right on doing so until smoking in public by "nearly" voters has ceased.

Mayor Scourup went to the heart of the amusement hall problem by making the managers responsible for what happened there. "Check-to-check" dancing went into the forbidden class, as well as all other forms of objectionable terpsichore. Orchestra leaders were notified to put the soft panel on jazz.

Objectionable motion pictures were censored entirely out of town.

Bootleggers, too, found a determined adversary in her. They smiled at first, paid their fines and went on selling moonshine. Then they were sent to county jail. And if twice didn't effect a cure they were introduced to the federal enforcement squad.

"Yes, I have just one regret in leaving office this year," says Mayor Scourup reminiscingly. "I wish I could stay and worry the bootleggers a little longer."

The board at a meeting last week there found it necessary to levy a higher tax for the year.

BUM HAS RELIGION IF HE SEEKS BATH

Pullman Conductor Helps Men Get Passage On Train Bound For Heaven

By Associated Press
Chicago.—"Brother, when a bum wants a bath, he's got religion."
That is the sage observation made by Thomas J. Marx, whose twin occupations include collecting tickets between earthly railroad stations and offering free transportation to celestial terminals of the bliss.

In work time he is a Pullman conductor on trains westward from here. At the end of a trip, whether in Chicago or in some strange city, he goes to a mission or street corner religious service and prays for the salvation of down-and-outers.

For 32 years he has been combining work and evangelism. For the greater part of the time he was with a piano company. Three years ago he gave up the position of superintendent there because of his health, and became a conductor. But all the time his life's interest and hobby has been mission work. Thousands of converted derelicts are his trophies for the effort.

STARTS IN ST. LOUIS
"Brother, when a bum wants a bath, he's got religion," he says from the fullness of his experience. It was in St. Louis that he evolved that maxim. A ragged wreck of humanity asked Marx for money. Marx spoke to him of religion, and the man at length professed he had found forgiveness for his sins. Marx was rejoiced, of course, but he didn't feel entirely sure of his man until he came around the next morning and asked for a bath. That was years ago, and the man's successful life since has been a witness to his reformation.

"Almost all the friends I have are ex-bums," says the conductor, "or talk more of the bum than I do of the tailor-made man. I was as much of a drunkard as any of them, although I was making good money as a young fellow. Besides my regular pay I could make $10 a night playing a corner in a beer garden, and I used to wear a $15 plug hat and a $15 suit. But liquor had me."

BROADMINDED
"And then I met the girl who was religious to the core. Because of her I found God and quit the booze. My old bunch all said, 'You'll get over it when you get the girl,' and they waited for me to go back. But I've been a worker for religion ever since."

On the train, Conductor Marx doesn't intrude his religion upon passengers. He doesn't organize prayer meetings in the smoking rooms or invent blue law regulations. "Now and then a passenger will give an opening for a word about his salvation, and I take it," he says. "I refused a drink of whiskey not very long ago and the passenger was so surprised he was ready to listen to what I had to say. But there's a way of talking to them so they don't resent it. Some time in the future after such a talk it will all come back to a man and he'll turn to God."

The well-fed man who rides the Pullman car is made out of exactly the same human stuff as the bum who is panhandling for the price of a cup of coffee. They both need the old-time religion.

SLIGHT PROFIT IS MADE BY OPERETTA BY H. S. ALUMNI

Expenses Of Production Almost Total Revenue From Three Performances

Kaukauna—A report of the financial result of the operetta "In the Garden of the Shah" which was presented a few weeks ago by high school graduates has been prepared. Gross proceeds from the three presentations of the comedy amounted to $375.50. Everything used to add to the success of the production was paid for and as a number of expenses were incurred including special lights, material for the construction of scenery as well as compensation to individuals for services rendered, expenses amounted to $387.30. A profit of $12.20 remains which has been turned over to the operetta fund of the high school.

Miss Florence Kohn, who directed the production, was granted $75. Frank Jirkovic, stage manager, who constructed the scenery and assisted in staging the show, received $20 while Miss Esther Bahr as accompanist received $10. Another sum of $50 has been set aside with which to entertain members of the cast and chorus and all others who assisted at a banquet and dinner-dance. The event will take place next Thursday evening in the Hotel Kaukauna dining room. Reservations are being made for 75 persons.

To stage the musical comedy cost $27.51 for royalty and music rental. Advertising expenditures amounted to $12.40. After rehearsals for the play were well under way it was found the cost of the costumes for the cast would amount to much more than could comfortably be paid by the individuals and the executive committee allowed $46.31 as part payment on them. Another $40 was allowed members of the cast for miscellaneous expenses and compensation for time lost from their regular employment.

The lights which added considerably to the beauty of the show cost $13.32. Other sundry and miscellaneous expenses, including stage costumes, brushes, paint, chair rental, crop, paper, cosmetics, amounted to $22.07.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Mrs. J. A. Strathairn of Manitowish, will speak at the regular meeting of Kaukauna Women's club Tuesday afternoon in the club rooms in the public library. A current topic will be given by Mrs. Edvard Zekind. Routine business will be disposed of.

The cast, chorus, orchestra, stage helpers and ushers who assisted in the production of "In the Garden of the Shah" recently by high school graduates on Nov. 21 and 22 will be entertained at a dinner dance at 5:30 Thursday evening in the dining room of Hotel Kaukauna. Mrs. Henry Nagel of the Coffee Cup has been engaged as caterer. A short program of toasts and talks will be given following the banquet after which dancing will be in order.

The Sunday school board of Reformed church will meet at 7 o'clock Monday evening in the church school house. Regular business will be transacted. A topic will be given by Miss Olive Jacobson.

Mrs. John Kilne was elected president of the Lady Elks at the regular meeting Friday in Elk hall. Mrs. J. J. Martens was selected vice president. Mrs. Homer White, secretary. Mrs. Henry C. Grauer, treasurer. Mrs. Irvin Spurr was hostess of the day.

THILMANY EMPLOYEES FORM BASKETBALL SQUAD

Kaukauna—A group of young men employed in the office of the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. have organized a basketball squad under the name of "Thilmany Independents." The men have taken in a few others not connected with the company and are holding practice every Saturday night in the gymnasium of the training school. Jack Parent is manager of the independents while Joseph Gerard is secretary and treasurer. Winfred Hass has been secured as coach of the squad. Games will be played with such teams as can be secured as soon as the season opens in the city. Members of the Thilmany Independents are Jack Parent, Joseph Gerard, Edwin Kunze, Rueben Goese, Alwyn Hartzheim, Russell Brenzel, Irvin Feldman, Roy Koehl, Harold Frank, Walter Burton and Irvin J. Kotzer.

DETECTIVE SLAYERS GIVEN LONG TERMS

Fond du Lac—Orville Jones was sentenced to eighteen years at Waupun and his brother Oliver was given 15 years by Judge Fowler for their conviction in the slaying of Elmo Jacobs, railroad detective, here several months ago. The brothers claimed self defense at the trial. The case will be appealed to the supreme court.

HORTONVILLE AND HORTONIA RATES OF TAXES LOWER

Increase Of Assessments Makes Payments Average About Same As Year Ago

Special To Post-Crescent
Hortonville—Slightly lower tax rates will apply in both Hortonville village and the town of Hortonia for this year, according to the decision of the respective boards at their meetings last week. The rate for Hortonville is $19 for each one thousand dollars of assessed valuation, and that for Hortonia, $12.10 a thousand.

Assessed valuation of both places is higher this year. The village is increased from $1,037,175 in 1922 to $1,116,725 in 1923, and the township from $1,014,750 to $1,025,571. Hortonville's rate is 33 cents a thousand lower than last year and Hortonia nine-tenths mills lower.

The average school tax of Hortonia is for and one-fourth mills and the road tax two and a half mills.

CLAIM THREE STATES STRIPPED OF TIMBER

Fond du Lac—North central states are paying more in freight charges alone for the importation of timber than they ever earned for cutting their own timber. Will H. Dill, president and founder of the Isaac Walton League of America, declared in an address here at the organization of the Wisconsin division of the league, "Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan have been stripped," he said, "virtually so, of their natural resources. Each of these states is paying more each year in freight charges on imported lumber than any of them received in any one year for cutting timber."

Eighty-five per cent of the streams of Wisconsin have been polluted, and as a result are infesting the cars and destroying the sight of many young boys, and taking a heavy toll of human life.

FOND DU LAC WILL USE 65,000 BARRELS CEMENT

Fond du Lac—Somewhat more than 65,000 barrels of cement will be ordered this winter by the Fond du Lac county highway commissioner, through the state highway department, for use on the road construction program in the county next season. The material will be required for eleven highway jobs which have been scheduled for next year. The largest quantity, practically half of the total amount, will be used on the Ladoga-Brandon-Ripon road, where 31,500 barrels will be used in the construction of about fifteen miles of cement.

SHEBOYGAN SPENDING $150,000 ON ROAD 17

Sheboygan—The county board levied $150,000 as the share of this county for paving with concrete state trunk highway 17 between Cedar Grove and Sheboygan, the federal government to meet that amount. Some of the other road work planned for 1924 was cut down in order to spend the money for the construction of this important highway. The board levied 2 1/2 mills for highway construction and maintenance.

BACKFIRING OF ENGINE IGNITES BARN WALL

Special To Post-Crescent
Seymour—The fire department was called to the C. H. Benedict farm about 2 o'clock Saturday morning when a wall of the barn caught fire due to the backfiring of a gasoline engine operating a feed cutter. The blaze was extinguished by farm hands before the department arrived and the only damage was the scorching of the wall. The Benedict family is out of the city and the farm is occupied by Mrs. Henry Muehl.

ON THE SCREEN

ERECT ENGLISH TOWN FOR TALMADGE PLAY
In "The Dangerous Maid," Constance Talmadge appears in the biggest outdoor moving picture setting ever constructed for one of her photoplays. This set is in the shape of a cross, one leg of which is 350 feet and the other 380 feet long.

The set represents the town of Durdorf, England, as it was in the time of King James II. Every house in the town, as shown in old engravings, has been re-created for "The Dangerous Maid."

Some fierce battling takes place in the streets between the soldiers of the king and the rebels under the Duke of Monmouth. Constance has the role of Barbara Winslow, a fair rebel, while opposite her Conway Tearle, as Captain Miles Prothero, an officer of the king, has the leading male role.

"The Dangerous Maid" was directed by Victor Heerman for First National release. In the cast also are Morgan Wallace, Tully Marshall, Marjorie Daw, Charles Gerrard, Lou Morrison and Ann May.

Constance Talmadge has the role of a madcap little rebel who dons a cavalier's sword and costume and engages in a thrilling series of adventures with the officers of the king. The story gives Constance her first opportunity to play a dramatic role, and the picture, although it contains many humorous situations, is replete with romance and love interest. This First National release will be shown at the Elks today, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

CHARM AND COMEDY IN "THE LOVE PIKER"
The latest picture in which Anita Stewart appears is the Cosmopolitan production, "The Love Piker," which will be the offering at the Majestic theatre for 2 days beginning today. This picture has an appeal that is bound to put it in the class of the season's most popular photoplays. It is a romantic love story with deep heart interest and abounds in pathos and comedy. It has a society background, but with a number of slum sequences for contrast. The situations are dramatic and filled with thrills, while the settings are ornate and beautiful.

"The Love Piker" is the story of a snobbish, wealthy society girl who falls in love with a self-made engineer, whose parents emigrated to America from Holland before he was born. The love story runs smoothly until one day the boy takes his fiancée down into the poor quarter of the town to visit his old Dutch father, who lives in a shanty, smokes a corncob pipe and is surrounded by his dog, cat and parrot. After meeting him the girl is almost on the point of breaking her engagement but finally decides to go through with it. However, when it comes to the wedding she knows she should invite her prospective father-in-law but hasn't the nerve. The dramatic strength of the story comes at this point, as the girl finally goes through a sort of regeneration and on the day of the wedding drives down to the shanty in her limousine and makes good by bringing the poor old father to the wedding.

A PICTURE WITHOUT A SINGLE FALSE NOTE

"The Danger Point," at the New Bijou Theatre Today and Tuesday is a picture that should be seen for the good reason that it is an enjoyable one—an exceptional drama. It has the rare quality of seeming to be real life, and its characters, people of flesh and blood, rather than a film fable played by human puppets. When it is all over you realize that your attention has been held every instant and that Carmel Myers, Wm. P. Carleton, Vernon Steel, Jos. J. Dowling who plays what is absolutely his best role since "The Miracle Man," Harry Todd and Margaret Joslin have taken you out of your world into a new one.

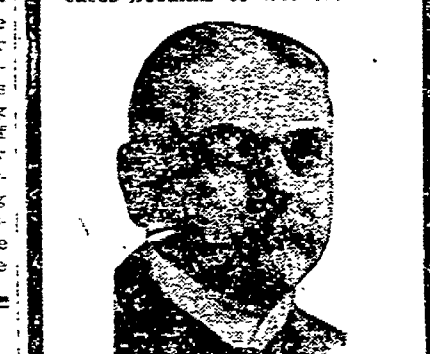

The story, like many of the best ones, is simple. It is about James Benson, a quiet, rather silent big man, who lives in a house overlooking the town he has founded and his gradual awakening to the appeal of a girl from the city. They marry because they really love and the rest of the story tells of their attempts to adapt themselves to each other, their mistakes, their exaggeration of trifles and their great misunderstanding. A magnificently staged railroad wreck is the climax and a happy ending is the logical result of it.

WANT 'HOLY NIGHT' AS CHRISTMAS NEARS

"Just a Girl That Men Forget"
Is Best Seller In Phonograph Shops Here

"Just a Girl That Men Forget" had the largest number of sales in phonograph records last week, closely followed by "Last Night on the Back Porch." From the records of the popularity of "Just a Girl That Men Forget" it is apparent it will become as popular as the "back porch" song, which, although not the best seller, is still in great demand.

Others that are especially popular are "Oh Gee, Oh Gosh, Oh Golly," "I Knew You Then as I Know You Now," and "Somebody's Wrong." Most of these pieces are quite new, but have been taking very well.

In the classical list many record buyers are asking for Christmas songs, to be given as gifts or for their own enjoyment. Of these the most popular is the old favorite "Holy Night." The five most popular records last week were:

Victor—Walk Johnny Walk Sunshine of Mine. Just a Girl That Men Forget. Sleep, A Kiss in the Dark (Gallie Curren).

Brunswick—When Clouds Are Vanished and Skies Are Blue. Last Night on the Back Porch. Somebody's Wrong. I've Got a Cross-eyed Papa. Holy Night (Easton).

Vocalion—Oh Gee Oh Gosh Oh Golly. Graveyard Dream Blues. Last Night on the Back Porch. Just a Girl That Men Forget. Maggie.

Victor—Oh Gee Oh Gosh Oh Golly. It Ain't Gonna Rain No More. Last Night on the Back Porch. Waltz of Long Ago. Wonderful One (McCormack).

Edison—You're Like a Babr. I Just Want a Daddy. If I Knew You Then as I Know You Now. No No No. Silent Night (Hempell).

Okeh—The Driving Back to Dreamland. Cut Yourself a Piece of Cake. That's a Lot of Bunk. Mississippi Ripples. Just a Girl That Men Forget.

HAWES LEAVES TUESDAY FOR CALIFORNIA VACATION

Former Mayor J. A. Hawes will leave Tuesday on an extended trip to the Pacific Coast. He will go direct to Seattle, Wash., where he will be the guest of his daughter until after the holidays. While there he will make trips into the surrounding country visiting all the larger cities and points of interest. His most northern trip will take him to Vancouver, B. C.

From Seattle he will go to San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego which cities he will make his headquarters while touring the surrounding country. One of his trips will include the Grand Canyon where he expects to remain for several days. He will return home next summer by way of El Paso and San Antonio, Tex., New Orleans and the Atlantic coast.

Mr. Hawes says it is to be purely a pleasure trip. It is 14 years since he last visited California and at that time he said there were very few automobiles and very few good roads. Most of his side trips at that time were made by rail, while on the coming trip he expects to make them by automobile.

More Fun To See Puppets "Back Stage" Than To See Show From Out In Front

Puppeteers Work With Precision
Which Indicates Careful
Thought And Management—
Pull 250 Strings For Show

By MURIEL KELLY

If you enjoyed the performance of Tony Sarg's marionettes at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Friday, you should have been behind stage to see the way the puppets are manipulated. To see the puppeteers as well as the puppets in action is worth several productions from out in front from the standpoint of what is done and how well it is done.

Shall we begin at the beginning which is several minutes before the curtain parts for the first time? When you are admitted back stage, and only a very few people ever have this privilege, you are allowed to wander around and see all there is to see. The first thing that you do see probably is the actors and actresses for the performance hanging from their controls on a rack built around three sides of the stage.

Each of these dolls has his own position from which to hang until the puppeteer is ready to make his entrance for him. Usually each puppet has a control of his own, but the four soldiers in the "Monsieur Le Capitaine" act were on one control and were exceedingly difficult to handle. As they are placed on the rack, the bags in which they travel and which look like laundry bags, are removed and placed on the corner of the big wicker trunk in which they travel. When all the properties have been placed where the puppeteers can reach them easily, the play is ready to commence.

WORK ON "BRIDGE"

Before beginning the show, however, you ought to know about the stage. It is really much smaller than it looked to you from down in front. It is not more than eight feet wide, three feet deep and four feet high. At both the front and back above the stage is built a bridge on which the puppeteers stand or move about in order to make their properties do their actings.

Back of the stage are the baskets and trunks in which the show travels. Each of these is filled with miniature stage trappings which are only one third the size of the usual settings and furnishings. All around you are the miniature settings, most of which are scarcely higher than your waistline. Your eyes just devour the things behind stage because they are done so well and copied from regular sized things so minutely.

PLACE FOR EVERYTHING

The most remarkable thing about the entire performance was the organization of the puppeteers and the quiet undisturbed way in which they worked. Each had certain things which he must do while he was not working his puppets and he went about and did them. The quiet way in which they worked seemed nothing less than remarkable. There was no scurrying around to find Red Riding Hood's basket, no worry because Fido's collar could not be found.

Perhaps, you would like to hear how the puppeteers looked. Well, Mr. Searle who did the announcing hurried behind scenes and removed his coat and went to work with a will. The women wore black smocks with either long trousers or bloomers, but every part of their apparel was made so that it would not get in their way when they were at work. One of the men wore white duck trousers which he had pinned at the bottom to keep them from getting in his way. The others wore the regular business suits, but they worked in their shirt sleeves. All of the workers, but Mr. Searle wore soft sole shoes.

Now, the play is ready to begin.

They gave you a chance to tell you the way they go as to keep out of the way. Mr. Searle mounted the bridge at the back of the stage and with him went the announcer. In his hand, the puppeteer held the wooden control which reminds you of the frame work of an aeroplane. The strings from this control are attached to the various parts of the puppet and it is through the manipulation of it that the puppet is made to walk and do his actings.

PUPPETEERS TALK LINES

Mr. Searle worked the announcer and of course did the talking for him. Sometimes when there are not so many children the announcer has great fun with them and has them shouting "hello" at him every he comes out. With so many children, he could not do it. After each entrance on the stage, the announcer is put back on the rack while the others work. After the juggler, which requires only one person to work it, a puppeteer for each actor in Little Red Riding Hood mounted the bridge, some in front and some back of the stage.

CITY SINGS ABOUT 'GIRL MEN FORGET'

"Just a Girl That Men Forget" is still the most popular piece of sheet music in Appleton music stores. This was proved when all stores selling sheet music placed this song on the list of five most popular pieces. "Last Night on the Back Porch," which was popular for an exceptionally long time, is still being called for, but its sales have decreased noticeably.

"Somebody's Wrong" had the largest number of sales in one of the stores, but because this was not true generally, it cannot be classed as one of the best sellers. Others that are taking well are "A Kiss in the Dark," "Tin Roof Blues" and "Sittin' in a Corner." The five best sellers at local music stores are:

Wm. S. Nolan—A Kiss in the Dark.
Just a Girl That Men Forget. Somebody's Wrong. Wonderful One. Last Night on the Back Porch.
Mersey Seeger—Panama Twilight.
Just a Girl That Men Forget. Sittin' in a Corner. Tin Roof Blues. Last Night on the Back Porch.
Irving Zuehlke—Tin Roof Blues. I'll Take You Home Again. Pal O'Mine.
Just a Girl That Men Forget. Sittin' in a Corner. Tin Roof Blues. Last Night on the Back Porch.
A Little Kiss While Dancin'. The West, a Nest and Tea.

As soon as the actors come off stage, they are placed in their bags and made ready to be put away. If you think that working in a company like this is easy, you should watch them. When they are not giving the lines and working with the dolls, they are getting them ready for their next journey. Each doll travels in a bag so that he does not get soiled and crumpled looking. If the puppet is to be used again in the show he is placed in the new position and whatever changes must be made in his costume are done at once.

As soon as the curtains come together, the place springs into action and the stage is set with the miniature trappings within a few minutes. As the performance goes on, the puppets become more and more empty until when it was time for the "Ching-Chang Chop Suey" act, only those four dolls and the bodies for the two human puppets were left.

PULL 250 STRINGS

Many of the dolls in the collection which were brought to Appleton have been perfected by Mr. Searle, who is the manager for Mr. Sarg. At least four people worked on the dolls brought here. More than 250 strings had to be manipulated for the Don Quixote performance.

It may be interesting to amateur actors in Appleton to know that when the lines are being spoken by the puppeteers, they actually go through the facial expression as they would on the stage if they were acting. Most of them are professional actors and others have just picked up the art of puppet and have thus fitted into the company.

TWO LIFE TERMS FOR ESCAPED MURDERER

When Stephen Madaja, who was given a double life sentence, and Russell Smith, whose sentence was from 40 to 50 years, are recaptured and returned to the state prison at Marquette, Mich., it will be difficult to say how much longer their prison terms will be made.

The two convicts, have been at large since April 21 of this year, according to Appleton police who have been notified to renew their watch for the escaped felons. A reward of $250 is offered for Smith and $300 for Madaja. Smith was sentenced six years ago for robbery and Madaja began his strange sentence on St. Patrick's day, 1921, for robbery and murder. Hence, the double life sentence.

Smith is 26, 5 feet 11 inches, weighs 155 pounds, has blue eyes, dark chestnut hair, sailor complexion, round chin and is of tall and slender build. Madaja also is tall and slender, 25 years old, 5 feet and 10 inches, weighs 155 pounds, has blue eyes, light chestnut hair, medium complexion and when last seen wore a small mustache.

St. James church of Manitowoc has prospered under the leadership of the Rev. Father Keicher who has served it nine years. The church now is entirely free of debt has accumulated a fund of $5,000 for a new rectory and has shown substantial increase in membership.

test, using the opportunity to strengthen themselves with their constituents whether they are candidates this time or not, so the tendency of congress will be to bring about an adjournment not later than August if possible.

In view of the fact that congress is torn in groups and blocs, the deadlock on legislation is likely to be of such a character as to force an adjournment at an early date, though all politicians are in agreement that congress will not adjourn without some action on tax revision, which has become the paramount issue.

Whatever doubts members of congress may have had about the importance with which the country views the necessity of tax reduction have been swept aside by the letters and telegrams which keep pouring in daily. Only such a torrent ever makes an impression, and the continued pressure of the country alone will change the course of congress from one of legislation to one of performance.

Between now and Christmas very little can be expected as the committees will be hard at work. There promises to be a lively fight on the rules which formed the basis of the recent truce whereby the insurgents agreed to the election of Speaker Gillette but with the understanding that the revision of the rules must be taken up in 30 days.

As for the senate, the consideration of treaties probably will become the order of the day while waiting on the house to take action on bills that must under the constitution originate there, as for instance, appropriations and revenue raising legislation. Congress has finally gotten started but nobody is any better able to do than a week ago to forecast whether this session will see a record achievement or political avoidance.

ENTERTAIN WINNERS OF ESSAY CONTEST

A. L. Collar, a supervising teacher of Outagamieco has returned from Milwaukee where he acted as chaperone for two Outagamieco pupils during their visit at the Wisconsin Products exposition. The pupils were Viola Schmitt of St. Joseph school, Appleton, and Everett Hookins of Pioneer school, Osborn. And their trip to Milwaukee was a prize for having written the best essays in a contest promoted by the exposition.

The essays were written on the subject, "My Best Opportunities Are In Wisconsin." Having returned from the exposition, they will now compete in the $100 prize essay contest on the subject, "My Impressions of the Wisconsin Produce Exposition."

While in Milwaukee they were sumptuously entertained. They were conducted on a tour to the public museum, Washington and Mitchell parks, Allis-Chalmers company plant, and other institutions. They were guests at Pilsner hotel.

TWO MEETINGS OF CABBAGE GROWERS

Two meetings of cabbage growers are scheduled for Tuesday, one in the afternoon at Shiocton and another in the evening at Black Creek. Dr. Walker of the United States department of agriculture will be present to discuss cabbage growing success. All farmers are invited.

Dr. Walker has supervised growing of cabbage for seed on the Pacific coast, from where the Outagamieco supply is obtained. He is an authority on cabbage culture and diseases. Marked difference is noticeable in treated and untreated seed, especially as to the manner in which cabbage keeps. George Weising, who ships from Center Valley, reports that very little seed that is treated shows any rot, while the disease is quite common otherwise.

AUTOMOBILE HITS STREET CAR, ONE DEAD, FOUR HURT

H. J. Thoreson, Prominent Lumberman, Fatally Injured
Saturday Night

Injured men were taken into a nearby home from where they were taken to the ambulance. Two partially recovered consciousness before he reached the hospital.

MAN DISAPPEARS

Considerable anxiety was caused by the disappearance of Driscoll, Fie-weger and Whale, who were in the party with the other three men at Terrace Gardens, knew that Driscoll was in the Thoreson car and they were considerably agitated when he couldn't be found. The burning Thoreson car was searched, the surest car was moved to ascertain if the body was underneath and the immediate vicinity was gone over for a trace of him. Later it was learned that Driscoll either was thrown out of the car when it hit the street car or jumped and immediately started for home. No one saw him leave the wreckage and he did not send word to his companions up to 11 o'clock that he was safe. The two crashes, almost simultaneous, when Thoreson's car rammed the street car and the truck piled into the wreckage, aroused the neighborhood and in a very few minutes a large crowd had gathered. Thomas Morrissey, who had alighted from his car at the corner of Locust and Second, a half minute before, saw the accident and telephoned for the ambulance before he knew the extent of the damage.

SAW CAR COMING

According to Motorman Van Dinter, he saw the headlights of an approaching automobile, with two left wheels in the street car track. Immediately after he started his car after Morrissey alighted. He changed the bell to attract the driver's attention but the automobile continued in its course. A passenger stated that he wished to get off at the Pierce-ave corner and Van Dinter began to slow down his car. When he saw a collision was inevitable—that the driver of the approaching car probably would not turn off the street car track—he set the emergency brake and the street car came to a stop. Passengers said they were thrown ahead violently when the street car stopped suddenly and the next instant came the crash of the collision and the shower of flying glass.

SECOND CAR HITS

Almost simultaneously with the collision of the street car and the Thoreson automobile came the crash of Fie-weger's truck into the wreckage of the other car. Fie-weger was following behind Thoreson machine and a few feet to its right. He was unable to stop or turn off when the first car struck. Thoreson's Buick hit the street car about midway between the street car headlight and the corner of the car and the back swung sharply to the right and Fie-weger's truck crashed into the rear left corner of the automobile ahead. The second crash carried the wreckage about half the length of the street car, between the street car and the curb on the south side of the street. The Buick began to burn immediately, the fire probably starting from friction sparks lighting gasoline spilled from the vacuum tank. Thoreson's car was a complete wreck. The left headlight was pushed halfway back to the seat, the engine was torn from its fastenings, the four wheels were broken and the left side was pushed in. Then to complete the wreckage the fire destroyed almost everything that was inflammable, and threatened to cause an explosion of the gasoline tank in the rear.

The front end of Fie-weger's truck was badly damaged but it can be repaired. It was untouched by the fire.

INQUEST ORDERED

Mr. Morrissey rushed to the wrecked cars after getting in his call for help and assisted in removing the injured men to a nearby house. The ambulance and fire department arrived at about the same time and took charge of the situation. It was more than an hour before the wreckage

HEAVY DEMAND FOR CONCERT TICKETS

Capacity Audience Assured Chicago Symphony Orchestra
Here Tuesday Night

Interest in the concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra has been more universally aroused than any other entertainment this season. Many persons outside of Appleton have written for reservations and it is expected that the orchestra will play for a capacity house. The Chicago Symphony orchestra is not only a musical but a financial institution. By the terms of the will of Bryan Lathrop, a former president of the Orchestral association, the association will eventually come into possession of an estate valued at about $750,000 for the purpose of establishing a music school devoted to instruments of the orchestra. By the will of Clyde M. Carr, who succeeded Mr. Lathrop to the presidency, and whose death occurred in June, 1923, the association will in time receive a bequest estimated at $1,000,000, the income from which will be available for the general purposes of the association.

BUILDING PERMITS

A permit to construct a basement at 555 Walnut-st was issued by the city engineer last week to J. R. Zickler. This was permit No. 74 and the cost of construction brought the season's total to $1,715,755.

It is not probable that anyone, besides those in the accident, saw the crash. Until the inquest is held, probably after the injured persons are in condition to testify, it will not be definitely known just what happened. The only facts that stand out as definite are that the street car was going west on Second-st, the two automobiles were going east on the same street, the Thoreson car hit the street car and Fie-weger's truck crashed into the rear of the Buick.

James W. Fisk Delivers Last Lecture Of Series At Vocational School

The final lecture of the business institute under auspices of the chamber of commerce and the Appleton Post-Crescent will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the vocational school, with James W. Fisk, merchandising counsel of the Milwaukee Journal as the speaker. Mr. Fisk has delivered two sets of lectures here and also has spoken at noon luncheons for merchants. The evening meetings are principally for salespeople, although the public is invited to attend.

Mr. Fisk's lecture Monday night will be on Merchandising Knowledge That Bears Business. He will stress the importance of knowing everything that can be learned about the stock that is carried in the store.

A noon Mr. Fisk spoke on "Merchandising Control That Keeps Stocks Down" at a luncheon for merchants. He discussed ways and means of the financial side of a store, the advantage of rapid turnover, standards of stocks

COOLIDGE HAT CAST IN RING FOR 1924 RACE

President Hopes To Remain In

Time To Duties

Pennsylvania and other prominent Republicans reported to be considering entrance into the race for the nomination.

Political observers expect the President to enter the preferential primaries in nearly all of the states in which they are held. In such contests, they point out, he is likely to cross swords with Senator Johnson, the only other avowed candidate, who has declared his intention to seek endorsement in these primaries wherever possible. The Republican national committee which will fix the date and price lines. The principal purpose of the lecture was to acquaint the merchants with ways of stopping business stagnation.

for the 1924 convention as well as select the meeting place, is not scheduled to name the city until Wednesday. In view of the withdrawal of its invitation by Chicago, however, action may be taken Tuesday after Des Moines San Francisco and Los Angeles have been given an opportunity to present their claims. Almost all of the party chiefs here regard acceptance of Cleveland's invitation as certain. Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the committee having asserted in announcing withdrawal of Chicago from the contest, that "responsible administration leaders" favored the Ohio city.

The committee members will be the guests of President Coolidge at luncheon Wednesday and they will be given a banquet Tuesday night by Chairman Adams.

CHILDREN TAKE OVER CAMPAIGN TO SELL T. B. STAMPS

Christmas Seal Goal Increased To $1,500 On Basis Of Heavy Sales

After a most successful campaign among merchants and manufacturers, school children Monday took up the sale of Christmas seals to finance anti-tuberculosis work in the state. Mrs. J. P. Frank, chairman of the campaign here, announced that sales among business people aggregated $550, about $250 more than ever received before from similar sources here.

So successful was the preliminary sale that it was decided to boost the goal from $1,000 to $1,500. There is a renewed interest in anti-tuberculosis work in Appleton and it is believed the sales will aggregate the larger figure.

Half of the money obtained from the sale of seals is retained in Appleton and will be given to the health department of the women's club which conducts clinics and does other health work. The other half goes to the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association.

Hundreds of children will engage in the house-to-house solicitation to sell seals. The youngsters must return the seals or their equivalent in cash on Monday, Dec. 17.

Bavarians Want Kaiser, Returned German Says

John Riehl, who has just returned from a three years' visit to his old home in Bavaria, says the people of that part of Europe want their old form of monarchical government restored and are practically united in their desire.

They are anything but satisfied with their present government and different factions keep the people in a state of unrest, he said.

Mr. Riehl returned to his native country after being in the United States seven years. Five years of which he spent in Appleton as an employee of the Interlake Pulp & Paper company.

His father died during his absence in the United States, but he found his mother and brother strong and well.

The latter who is the owner of a flour mill, was in the service during the entire war.

Mr. Riehl said the people engaged in agriculture are suffering less than the people of the cities, many of whom are without food and visit the rural district in droves in search of something to eat.

More than half of the people in the cities are unemployed and many of the manufacturing plants are shut down because of lack of coal. Provisions are so high they are out of the reach of the poorer classes of people, Mr. Riehl said.

When asked about the present situation in Europe relative to another war Mr. Riehl said no one can predict what the outcome will be.

COMPLETE PAVING ON LAWE-ST BRIDGE

By working Sunday, C. R. Meyers & Sons company finished paving the roadway of the new Lawest bridge which is nearing completion. About all that remains to be done is to place in position a portion of the railing. The company was given until Dec. 20, to complete the structure.

Such rapid progress was made on Cherry-st last week by Wausau Iron Works that the company expects to complete the concrete work this week providing the weather is favorable. The work is now confined to the last two piers on the south side of Fox river one of which is up to the cross section and the other is about half completed.

Postpone Meeting

The meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. called for Wednesday evening has been postponed because of the physical department committee luncheon the following noon to which the members have been invited. The definite date of the meeting will be announced later.

FOUND LIBRARY OF DREAMS TO AID MYSTERY STUDY

Western Man Is Recording Significant Dreams Which Have Come True

By Associated Press
Los Angeles.—Visions, "certified by fact," occur with remarkable frequency among those not professionally "psychic," according to a compilation of such experiences by Clarke Irvine.

Irvine, independent investigator of occult phenomena and motion picture writer, recently founded a library of prophetic dreams, to which already hundreds of authenticated instances have been contributed from all parts of the world.

"Almost every mail," said Irvine, "brings records of significant dreams come true—visions by which have been saved, loved ones recovered or protected from disaster foretold. Conduct and precautions taken to every walk of life. In this repository, the life of the hand, will be filed only those many instances which have been attested or are susceptible to proof."

INVITES CONTRIBUTIONS

"My purpose is to gather a mass of evidence upon which further psychic research may be based. Persons which will be open without charge to anyone genuinely interested in this profoundly beguiling subject. Such a compendium should prove invaluable to students seeking to place occult fragments into patterns of spiritual law, or whatever lies behind them."

Irvine, inviting contributions to his library at 3341 Melrose avenue, expects to issue bulletin from time to time, broadcast in digest of material received. His interest, he says, is wholly that of the scientific amateur, eager to stimulate research in this field of phenomena.

Here are a few of the records in the library of prophetic dreams.

FORETELLS FATHER'S MURDER—Haze, Bonner, 14, in Oxford, Ala., dreamed she saw her father slain by robbers in a Cleveland (O.) restaurant, told her mother details which checked with events detailed in telegram received next morning.

DREAM BRINGS FORTUNE—Harry Lesser, gassed war veteran at Memphis, Tenn., dreamed his dead father told him to go to New Orleans. Established communication with former associate brought notice to claim an estate of $215,000.

DREAMS OF WRECK—VISIONS OF AIR WRECK—Miss Jane Cassidy, Shelbyville, Ky., while on train asleep, dreamed a wreck, dreamed, woke her scolding companions and walked to rear coach. Train derailed few minutes later, she unharmed.

CURES PATIENT BY DREAM—Dr. C. C. Untch, Pa., dreamed patient in a baffling case had eaten an apple years before, accidentally swallowing needle which now responsible for trouble. Operated on stomach of vision and found needle just where indicated by dream.

SEES FLIER KILLED IN FALL—C Irvine of Los Angeles, dreamed of air crash which almost cremated aviator. Next day newspapers chronicled death of Lieutenant Mauser, San Diego army flier, under identical circumstances. Aler "saw" first aerial head-on collision right before occurrence.

SYNCHRONIZED DREAMS—Mr. E. attended gathering at Mr. Vernon, O., to witness horse eclipse. Vision of that day awakened from dream of that event to find moon again in eclipse. Received letter from friend few days later, saying the latter had also dreamed of some event and had "seen Mr. E. looking at eclipse from platform of moving car."

SAVANTS STILL AT ODDS ON RELATIVITY

By Associated Press
Paris.—A division of scientific opinion has been made here by the "theory of relativity" of Albert Einstein, which has been the subject of much discussion of time and space.

Former Premier Poincaré, first mathematician and later a politician, is threatening to drop politics long enough to prove that the earth has stopped turning. In fact he asserts that it never did turn. Mr. Poincaré has a brand new theory of the universe, based on mechanics. He says Einstein is right except that he is not right enough.

Professor Langevin, professor of the College of France, "theory of the sounding machine" in which ships may be pined in any sea, has made what his friends describe as a religion of the Einstein theory, combining of theories and of others, and a new world.

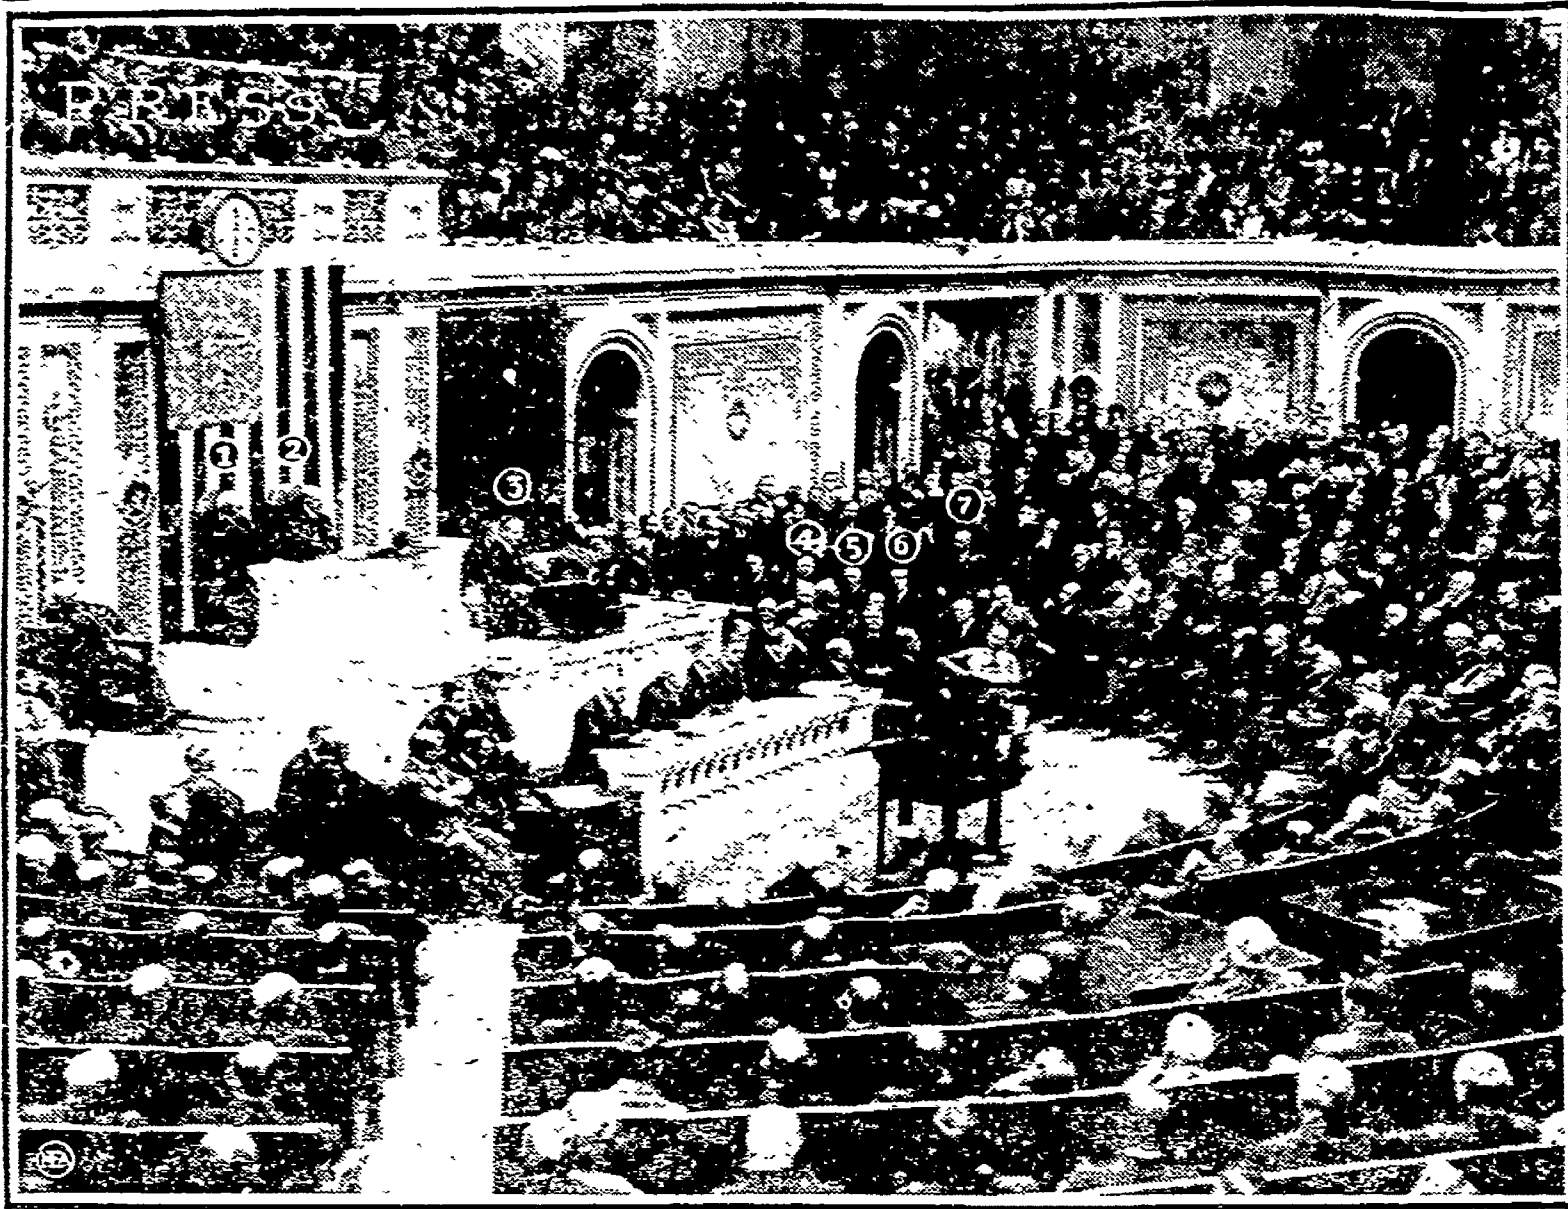

Emile Picard, the great Frenchman, secretary of the Academy of Sciences from his return to the republic, has been "in the line" of this battle of the world. However, he is inclined to the belief that the old-timers were fairly correct.

Director Bataillon, of the Paris Observatory, says that in many respects science is still like Dogmae, stumbling along with his lantern. "As for me," he added, "I have no opinion as to the relative merits of the discussion. It would take me two years of my life to become familiar with the Einstein theory, and as I am 75 now, I really haven't the time to spare."

Gillett, speaker of the House; (3) President Coolidge (note radio microphones on desk before him, through which his voice was broadcast throughout the nation); (4) Secretary of War Weeks; (5) Secretary of Treasury Mellon; (6) Secretary of State Hughes; (7) Secretary of Navy Denby.

POLICEMAN GUARDS FRUIT

Friday at about 11 o'clock I was on my way up town and when nearly in front of Vogel's drug store, I noticed a wholesale fruit truck passing. Just then a case of grape fruit fell off the truck and broke open the fruit rolling in every direction on the pavement. A good many boys and men were standing on the street. I am sure the driver would have had lots of time to pick up the golden balls, but fortunately for him a policeman that was near, stepped out into the street and stood guard, while the man gathered up his property.

GETS A REFUND

Ever the cheerful business is on the decline. One took place about a mile west from Freedom on Friday evening and proved most unsuccessful. The program figured that he was being outwitted by three people and that three dollars would be enough. The merry makers thought differently and after a conference decided to return the contribution to the neighbors and the program was pretty glad to get it back.

PREPARE PROSPECTUS OF NEW M. E. CHURCH

A colored prospectus of the proposed Methodist church building is being prepared by the Rev. J. A. Holmes and Adam Remley and will be given to members of the congregation within a short time. The pamphlet will contain pictures of many of the features of the church and will also show the floor plan.

Work on the building has been postponed until spring. The plans have been partially accepted but a few changes probably will be made.

Burns Building

Martin DeBruin, Kaukauna, has purchased the building on Wisconsin ave., Kaukauna, now occupied by the Railway Express Co., from J. Kettenhorst. There will be no changes in the tenants in the building.

Encouraged, while if there was a shortage of wheat the tax would be lessened and production stimulated.

"This plan would not interfere with the present grain trade, with the development of cooperative marketing, nor with the chance of a price above the basic minimum to the farmer who chooses to hold his wheat until after the harvest rush. It would, without subsidizing agriculture, put the labor and capital of the American farmer on a plane with the capital and labor of other industries."

"It would eliminate market glutts due to overproduction placing the burden of overproduction upon the entirely upon the farmer. The consumer of wheat in the United States would be asked to give the farmer an equal chance. Only the extremely selfish would deny this."

"Approximately six hundred million bushels are consumed at home and two hundred million bushels are exported. This surplus is a millstone around the neck of agricultural prices."

The suggestion that American wheat should be sold to buy wheat was denounced by Mr. Madden, who said this plan would only aggravate the situation because "it increases the amount of the surplus held in America, which sooner or later would cause prices to fall to lower levels."

MIRACLE MAN OF EUROPE READS YOU BY HANDWRITING

Rafael Schermann Is Coming To United States To Show His Powers

London — If you have any secrets from your wife, your mother-in-law, your business boss, or the police, give a wide berth to Rafael Schermann, who is on his way to America. And above all, don't let him get his eyes on any of your handwriting.

For Schermann is declared to be the modern miracle man. Just a couple of lines idly scrawled by you, reveals to him your past and your future, your aptitudes, your habits, your illness, everything a person would want to know about you and, perhaps, more than you know about yourself.

Schermann, whose people are of Polish origin, used to work at a regular job in Vienna as fire damage appraiser. Suddenly he discovered his extraordinary powers as a graphologist and has been at it ever since, giving exhibitions of his gifts before scientific men in Vienna, Budapest, Prague and Zurich.

There is no possibility of his having a card index on all the people whose handwriting he examines. The stuff doesn't even have to be signed. All he needs is a few lines of your ordinary script.

By some unexplained gift he at once deduces from this a physical and psychological photograph of the writer, telling about his gait, voice, and gesture, aptitudes and failings, state of health, likes and dislikes, traits of character and temperament. But that is not all.

The accumulation of personal, psycho-physical detail is merely the raw material of his vision. Out of this detail revealed to him by the dots and lines of your handwriting, he is said to tell the course of your life.

THIRD—He analyzed the handwriting of a man who came to him.

Schermann said the writer used to have his face smooth shaven; that the heavy black mustache was something designed to disguise him; that he was in trouble because of his cleverness at imitating other people's script. Not long after, the man was arrested by the police as a forger for whom a warrant had been long standing.

SECOND—A young woman submitted her handwriting.

He told her she had quarreled with her lover, had taken to drugs and was contemplating suicide. She confessed it was true.

THIRD—Another girl showed the script of her sweetheart.

He told her the young man had incipient tuberculosis and advised her to wait until he was cured. The doctor's examination showed this was the truth.

In Vienna where he lives they say that of the analyses made by Schermann 79 per cent were correct, 22 per cent partly right and partly wrong and only 3 per cent entirely error. Schermann personally strongly objects to being classed with clairvoyants and mediums.

Some Viennese scientists think he has a sixth sense. He has been carefully watched by Professor Benedikt, the famous alienist of Vienna University. Benedikt admits seeing some wonderful things, but says he can't explain them.

Schermann's own theory is that the whole individuality of a man, with all the details of his life, is

FARM RENTING GAINS SLIGHTLY IN PAST DECADE

Contrary To General Belief, Tenancy In America Increased Little

By Associated Press
Madison — Farm tenancy in the United States increased but one per cent during the last decade, contrary to the general belief that agricultural lands were rapidly passing out of the hands of owner-operators into the hands of tenants, judging by a report of the Institute for Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities. This body, directed by Dr. Richard R. Ely, well-known economist, is organized especially to conduct research in land problems.

Basing its conclusions upon 1920 census figures, the Institute concludes that "an increase in tenancy can be expected in the normal development of a nation, a fact noted by many who look upon tenant farming as something absolutely undesirable."

The report showed that tenants operated approximately one-fourth of the farms of the country in 1880, with a jump to 28 per cent in 1890, and to 35 per cent in 1900. A more gradual increase came in the next two decades, the proportion in 1910 being 37 per cent and in 1920, 38 per cent.

Measured in terms of acreage of land in farms, about 28 percent of farm land is being cultivated by tenants, according to the institute statement. Measured in terms of improved acreage, tenants are said to occupy almost 35 percent of the improved land.

The South is shown to have had a steady increase in tenant farms, with some states showing over 60 percent of farm tenancy.

"The reason must be sought in the prevalence of one-crop farming, particularly cotton and tobacco, and in the human factor," the report declared. "Three-fourths of the negro farmers and a large proportion of the whites are tenants. The backward and the migration of negro labor to the North is bound to produce great changes in the present renting arrangements."

"However, in the last decade seven states in the South have had a decrease or else practically no change in the proportion of tenants to owners. They are: Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and Maryland."

Ever since 1880 there has been a steady increase in farm tenancy in the Corn Belt. Missouri alone is an exception. In the Corn Belt, economic forces determining tenancy have had full play. Farms have increased in size ever since 1880. Agricultural machinery has made possible a larger acreage per man. The tractor has increased the influence to the same direction. Land is at a premium and its value often inflated, making ownership more difficult.

"Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas have had the most remarkable increases in the proportion of tenants to owners during the last decade. Western Minnesota shares in this increase with the Dakotas. North Dakota had only 14 percent of tenancy in 1880, but now has over 25 percent, while South Dakota jumped from 25 to 35 percent. One crop agriculture, large scale operations and the many farms held for speculation are features that partly explain this rapid rise in tenancy."

"Notable declines in tenant operated farms have persisted in the Eastern states on the Atlantic seaboard from Virginia northward. Only New York had a larger proportion of tenants in 1920 than it had in 1880, and even then in 1920 less than one-fifth of its farms were tenant operated."

"Western states have such a variety of conditions that tenancy figures are not significant. The agriculture ranges from irrigated land to ranching. New farms are still being created from the public domain, and these are practically all in the hands of owners. This fact tends to obscure the increase in tenant farms."

"Utah has the lowest rate of tenancy in the United States outside of New England and Nevada, although it is one of the oldest of the western states and has a well developed agriculture. The peculiar social and religious institutions of the Mormons have to be examined to explain this."

It is a peculiarity of the horse to arise on the forelegs first, while the cows first arises on its hind legs.

The human jaw possesses only eight muscles, but these exercise a force of nearly a quarter of a ton.

microscopically contained in his script and the trained eye perceives all in a sequence of pictures passing like those of a movie film.

And just as a movie film can be reversed, so Schermann can reverse his process. Just as from looking at your script, he can tell you about yourself, so from looking at you he can tell what your handwriting is like. It is claimed his imitations of people's handwriting made by merely studying the person himself have in a majority of cases been very similar to the real handwriting.

450,000 FARMERS IN UNITED STATES PRODUCE TOBACCO

Increase In Production Caused By Growth In Demand For Machine-made Cigarettes

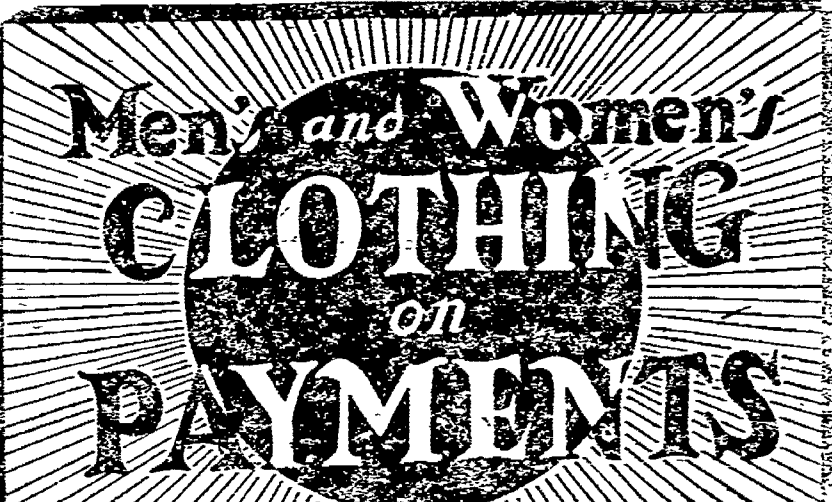

By Associated Press
Washington — A comprehensive picture of the American two-million-acre, half-billion-dollar tobacco industry is contained in the 1922 yearbook of the Department of Agriculture.

Although the tobacco crop covers only about one-half of one per cent of the acreage devoted to all crops in this country, it has a high value to the acre and requires a great deal of labor both in the growing and manufacture. Most of the crop is grown in a few states, Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia being the leaders, but some tobacco is grown in 42 states. The three named produce nearly two-thirds of the output, while Kentucky alone produces a third of the total.

In 1919, tobacco was grown on nearly 450,000 farms. North Carolina stood first in value of the crop, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, was the leading county in acreage and production, and Hartford County, Connecticut, was second. There were 10,291 tobacco manufacturing establishments employing 182,000 persons. The internal revenue from tobacco amounted to nearly $300,000,000 a year.

The work of the Agriculture Department has had an important influence in improvement of the industry, and in the last 25 years, because of new methods, better varieties and greater use of fertilizers, the yield from each acre has been increased. The growing of cigar wrappers under shade, which has become extensive in Connecticut and Florida, has made it possible to produce a high grade leaf which formerly was imported. The crop advances little into new territories because each type of tobacco is closely limited to certain localities on account of soil and climatic conditions.

The outstanding feature of the growth of consumption in the last quarter-century has been the great increase in the use of machine-made cigarettes. From 1895 to the present time the manufacture of cigarettes has risen from 4,000,000 to 60,000,000,000 a year.

ONE KILLED, 12 INJURED IN 12 CAR ACCIDENTS

Heavy Traffic And Wild Driving - Results In Big Toll Of Injuries

out of the car and cut about the face and head. He was unconscious when picked up. His companion, a boy named Farmer, also of Hortonville, was unhurt. The injured people were brought to Appleton in automobiles that were passing at the time. Anderson was driving a car said to be owned by Louis Baurenfield, Hortonville, but the license, 178-929, was issued to Matthew Oik of Hortonville. Mr. Oik said he does not own a car and that he had junked a car he did own. He says he cannot account for the fact that his license plates were on Baurenfield's car.

Miller was driving his truck toward Appleton and Anderson was going toward Hortonville. When the machines collided head-on, Miller says Anderson was driving without lights and from Hortonville it was reported that both cars were lightless. Miller's truck is a wreck. The engine was torn from its fastenings, the wind shield was smashed and the steering gear torn out. The Ford also was demolished. Miller was almost thrown out by the crash.

Two men suffered minor injuries when a Ford touring car which they occupied skidded off the Dale-ditch Sunday. Henry Williams, 633 Teuloh-st. was cut back of an ear and also on his hands, when his brother, Martin Williams, suffered a bad gash over his eyes and sprained a wrist.

The wheels of the automobile were broken, the top was smashed and the radiator and rear of the car considerably damaged. The frozen dirt shoulder of the road had begun to thaw and it was this greasy condition of the road that was blamed for the accident.

The two front wheels of a Buick sedan owned and driven by Otto Wickert, undersheriff, were broken off when the car ran off the road near Stephensville Friday evening. Neither Mr. Wickert nor Mrs. Wickert was injured.

Handicapped by a flat tire and a slippery road, the driver applied the brakes at a corner, at which the car skidded against a telephone pole breaking a piece off it and then landed against a fence.

A bicycle belonging to Joseph Grassbender, 14, of 387 Cherry-st. was damaged at about 4:50 Saturday evening when it was struck by an automobile owned by the F. Dohman company, 26 East Water-st., Milwaukee. The accident occurred in front of the Pettibone-Peabody company annex where the bicycle was parked. The rear rim of the bicycle was broken and the frame was bent.

J. A. Welch, Sheboygan employed by the Thomas Webb Coffee company of Chicago, was slightly injured at about 9:20 Saturday evening when his Ford coupe in descending Drew-st. hill in front of Brook hall collided with a telephone pole and tipped over. The driver suffered minor injuries to his legs, while the front end of the car, particularly a fender, was damaged. Police declare Welch was under the influence of liquor at the time and a warrant for his arrest was sworn out.

Martin Eickhoff, Jr., 945 Spring-st. was injured in an automobile accident which occurred at Second-ave and Mason-st at about 6 o'clock Sunday evening. He suffered deep gashes on the left side of his face and on his chin when his father's Chevrolet sedan which he was driving struck a Dodge automobile truck belonging to H. G. Williams of Kimberly.

Eickhoff was driving west on Second-ave at the time and Durwood Williams, driver of the truck, was proceeding east on the same street. The top of the sedan was demolished and a right rear wheel was broken off. The right front wheel of the truck also was broken. Eickhoff was conveyed to the office of a surgeon where his wounds were dressed. No one in the automobile truck was injured.

The Chevrolet car owned and driven by Adam Schabo figured in a clash at the crossing where the road from Kimberly bridge joins Highway 15 at 4:30 Sunday afternoon. Mr. Schabo and a man, whom he said he picked up on the road and whose name he did not know, were coming to Appleton and were going very slowly at the top of the hill when the bright lights from a car going north blinded the driver. The two cars came together, resulting in a smash in front and a broken windshield for the Schabo car.

Mr. Schabo did not know the name of the owner of the car with which he crashed. He said that the car was not badly damaged. It was said that the machine was a Nash owned by a Greer Bay man. Mr. Schabo drove his car home on its own power. That was the second clash on that corner Sunday, two Fords having come together at about 12:20. Neither was badly damaged but broken glass on the highway caused many a motorist to speculate about the accident. It is understood that one car was owned by a Kimberly man and the other by a Kaukauna man.

M. W. Grant, 1245 D-forest-ave, has his right leg injured as the result of an accident which occurred when an Overland car driven by M. J. Diederich, 580 South Division-st. struck Grant, who was riding a bicycle going west on College-ave at 3:35 Monday morning. Diederich was driving east on the avenue and in attempting to turn around at the intersection of College-ave and Superior-st. struck Grant. The injured man was taken to Dr. Bolton's office, where his leg was examined, after which he was taken to his home. The extent of his injury has not been ascertained.

SORROW ESSENTIAL IN LIFE. MASONS ARE TOLD BY JUDGE

Memories Of Five Members Are Eulogized At Lodge Of Sorrow Sunday

Judge Edgar V. Werner delivered the address at the annual lodge of sorrow of the Masonic order in Waverly lodge rooms Sunday afternoon, revealing in his talk the essential place that sorrow has in life and proving the faith of men in immortality. The gathering was attended by about 100 Masons who came to eulogize the memory of five of their number who died during the year. The deceased members are Herman Heckert, John L. Pingel, Lewis A. Briggs, Grant Phillips and Rudolph Schwarz. Judge Werner described the extent to which the soul thought of man guides human life. The importance which man attaches to human destiny and the attitude he takes toward it are proof of his faith in immortality.

Sorrow, Judge Werner said, is essential in the schemes of human life. While most of us believe tears are a sign of weakness, yet they are in truth a sign of strength. Most of the grief that besets people is forgotten shortly afterward, but that is not true of sorrow for those who have died. People do not try to forget their deceased loved ones. This is illustrated, he said, in the Masonic lodge of sorrow, where a time is set aside once a year for eulogies to those who have departed.

Dr. J. A. Holmes, chaplain, offered the opening prayer and a vocal solo by George Nixon followed. Adam C. Remley, worshipful master, then made a brief address in which the purpose of gatherings of this kind was explained. Scripture passages were read at two different times during the service by the chaplain.

Wilmer Schaefer, Jr. played a violin solo and memorial services by officers of the lodge followed. A second number was given by Mr. Nixon. Judge Werner presented his address and officers conducted the closing ceremonies. William H. Kreiss acted as pianist.

TOT DIES IN BLAZE AS MOTHER SHOPS
By Associated Press
Superior—While the mother was buying groceries for a Sunday supper, Dorothy May Frye, 4-month old infant, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the newly built home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Frye, state trunk highway No. 85, near the Dairy Farm township 35 miles south of Superior.

The mother was in a grocery store about a mile away when the kitchen stove exploded and destroyed the home, built last summer. A 13-year-old neighbor girl saved two other children.

IMMEL WILL CONFER ON GUARD AT WASHINGTON

Madison—Adjutant General Ralph M. Immel will leave Madison on Dec. 27, for Washington to confer with militia bureau officials regarding national guard activities in Wisconsin, he announced Monday. General Immel also is expected to take up with federal officials the appointment of a commander for the Thirty Second division, composed of Wisconsin and Michigan Guard units.

Children, two and four years of age. Colonel Z. A. Downs of Superior was unable to learn the heroine's name.

Although the mother made several attempts to rush into the flames to save her child, neighbors prevented her as the fire had made such headway by the time Mrs. Frye reached the scene, it was useless to try to save the child or any part of the home. The body is at Downs undertaking rooms here. Mr. and Mrs. Frye and the two other children are being sheltered by neighbors.

Exactly nine years ago Sunday the first service of Trinity English Lutheran congregation was held in Eagle hall. This was brought out in the address given by the Rev. A. J. NO RISK RATE CUT FOR 4-WHEEL BRAKE
Automobile Underwriters' Conference Says They Do Not Increase Safety
At a joint meeting of the Actuarial and Forms Committee of the National Automobile Underwriters' Conference and the Automobile Committee of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, held recently in New York, it was decided that four-wheel brakes upon automobiles do not increase their safety, but in fact rather add to the danger of accidents, and that, therefore, there will be no reduction of rates because of their use. A leading underwriter, discussing the subject, is quoted as saying that the opinion among underwriters has decidedly changed, owing, among other reasons, to the fact that a large manufacturer of automobiles who placed four-wheel brakes upon his machines during the current year has decided to eliminate them on his 1924 cars, because he found by actual experience that a four wheel brake was not as safe as a two-wheel.

LETTER FROM RICHARD SUMMERS TO HIS FIANCEE, BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

DEAREST BEE:

I was not quite sure when I left you that I was doing right to come way out here and postpone our wedding for months and months. But, oh, Bess, I am sure when you join me you will say this great western city and its environs is the loveliest spot on earth.

I am already ready in love with Los Angeles, or rather Hollywood, for that is where you and I are going to live, my dear. I have been fortunate enough to find rooms in an apartment hotel which gives me a view of the mountains and here and there a shimmer of the distant sea. The air is perfectly glorious and of course the days go rolling with their constant and much advertised Sunshine.

I know you will not be jealous, dear, when I tell you that I have never seen so many beautiful girls in all my life. In fact, I think the women of all ages whom I have seen show beauty unsurpassed by the women of any other place or country where I have been.

Of course it is natural that beautiful young girls from everywhere should flock to this moving picture center, but I never imagined that you could go to a place where every girl was lovely until I came here. It is a peculiar kind of beauty. Regularity of features, beautiful hair, radiant eyes and exquisite mouths.

land over all the stanscent loveliness of youth.

One does not need to see more than that, does one? You must not often look for brains or souls; at least to my eyes these faces lack in many cases these things which make you so beautiful, my dear.

A man may live to look upon all these exquisite creatures even when they are as soulless when you meet them face to face as they are upon the screen, but when a man thinks of his wife, he wants something more.

I went with Arthur Thornton, who you know is my superior, to one of the big hotels the other night and met a number of girls who were in moving pictures. The most interesting one among them was a young woman who called herself Paula Perier. I'm sure that wasn't her real name. It is too musical to be true.

She told me she was from Albany and although she had only been out here a very short time, she already had a small part with one of the big stars. This girl had an understanding, if not a spirituality, which set her above the average crowd. I shall like to have you meet her when you come here which I hope will be very soon.

I am almost mad at times with longing for you and only by working hard will I ever get through the next two or three months.

Your devoted, — DICK.

Adventures Of The Twins

Misss Grouse In Trouble

Misss Grouse, the hobby fairy, stopped his pony suddenly and motioned to the Twins to do likewise. Then he put his finger over his lips and nodded toward a dead tree that hung crookedly over the mountain path where they were riding.

There sat Chatterbox Niggle in his gorgeous coat of black, white and red, acting like a bad school boy. For, although Chatterbox is a friend of both mountain folk and "hans", the birds hate him. He treats them shamefully. And just now he was making fun of Misss Grouse and his eight brown children.

"Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho, ho!" laughed Chatterbox in his high, creaky voice. "Why doesn't your husband stay at home, Misss Grouse? It is because you have a bad disposition and because you and your children are so ugly! What you're just a plain speckled brown, all of you, and when I look down from my perch I can hardly tell you are there. Grouse kids that's what you are! Can?"

"Why, we have a good reason for staying on the ground, Mister Mac," answered Misss Grouse meekly. "It's because we can't fly so very well and, therefore, can't get out of the way of hawks or eagles or any big bird that might chase us. We know we match the ground and that's why we stay close to it, as you well know."

"Oh, no, sir!" said Misss Grouse. "I lent my name, but it's his name. I took his name when we were married. It's his name that is Gadabout, not mine. I only go around 'og at food for my family. But with him it's different."

"Ah, ha," exclaimed Chatterbox quickly. "So that's it, is it? He is a sort of fellow who won't stay at home and likes to keep operators' tails in the air. I knew there was a scandal somewhere."

No that's not it, all declared Misss Grouse, indignantly. He has a good reason for leaving his nest alone and going off by himself, high in the mountains."

Who's Who Overlooked This Woman

Monticello, Ill. — Not a mention of her in "Who's Who."

Yet a record of her activities and achievements might fill a column of that closely typed collection of the great and near-great.

She is Mrs. Flo Jamison Miller, prominent clubwoman, social worker, public speaker and a hundred and one other things. Few men in this country, even in the world, can vaunt a longer list of titles and honors. Here's what she terms just a "partial enumeration" of her positions and accomplishments:

Corresponding secretary, the National Council of Women in the United States and one of the secretaries of the International Council of Women.

District president, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Active in Republican politics and at one time state chairwoman of her party in Illinois.

Devised the first flag law presented to the Illinois Legislature.

Author of measure providing for a course on the life of Abraham Lincoln in Illinois schools.

Member, State Historical Society.

Secretary, Platt County Historical Society.

Member, National Geographic Society, Women's Benefit Association, Daughters of Veterans, Dames of the Loyal Legion, Daughters of 1812.

PHILANTHROPIST

Studied conditions and recommended improvements in service men's hospitals.

Was superintendent of a state institution for the care of veterans, their widows and mothers.

Devised law for proper burial of soldiers or their relatives.

Active in philanthropic work for Civil War veterans.

Former president Woman's Relief Corps of the United States. Now state secretary.

Outside of that Mrs. Miller has a husband and a daughter to look after.

The rest of the time she has to herself.

Wins Office As Secretary Of Kentucky State

Frankfort, Ky. — Womanhood's claim for high places in American politics again has been vindicated, this time in Kentucky.

Of course, in a race of woman versus woman, there was no chance for a man. So Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell of Frankfort just had to defeat Miss Eleanor H. Wickliffe of Louisville for secretary of state.

Mrs. Cromwell has long been in politics in her state, starting in 1896 when she was elected state librarian after a stormy session of an equally divided legislature.

"I feel I owe my success in politics to energy, hard work and a constant devotion to the principles of democracy," explains Mrs. Cromwell.

Mrs. Cromwell was born in Simpson county and was a teacher before entering the political arena of her native state. During her term as state librarian she married the late William Cromwell, one of the best known men in the state.

After serving successively as enrolling clerk of the House of Representatives and a member of the Frankfort school board, Mrs. Cromwell entered the primary race for secretary of state against Mrs. Mary Elliott Flannery of Boyd county and won by a safe majority.

The secretary of state-elect has taught classes in parliamentary law at University of Kentucky, is an author of a text book on this subject, a member of many women's clubs and of the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Cromwell enters office Jan. 1, the first woman to hold a job of such importance in the history of Kentucky.

Handbags From Paris, Though Simple, Carry Decorative Touch

Here are sketches of the latest Paris inspirations in handbags, due in America in time for the Christmas rush.

Rhinestones now flash in varying degrees of brilliance from feminine wrists. They appear in scrolls and diagonal lines on bags of black velvet, crepe marocain and suede. Bags in envelope shape are completely covered with sparklers. (The vanity cases suspended from the fingers are also decorated with them.)

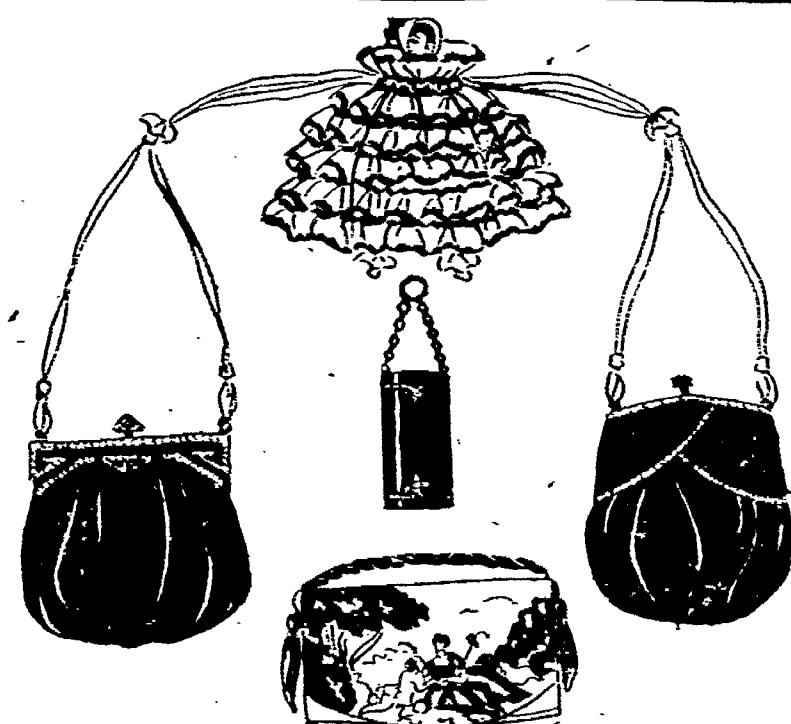

The woman of taste reveals her discrimination in choosing a less conspicuous bag for ordinary occasions. Perhaps she selects one of antelope leather, which is more supple than suede. It may be octagonal in shape and with a clasp of marcasite.

If the bag is an envelope, a minute figure in marcasite of a Pierrot singing to the moon sometimes adorns one corner, or delicately wrought initials are used.

Bags of tapestry, needle point, brocade are still in demand, but they are more elaborate in design and more expert in workmanship than ever before. Brocade and tapestry have exchanged a conventional pattern for decorative scenes such as a golden-haired maiden of a white horse with mysterious castle in the background.

It was of exquisite stuff like these that the handbags carried by the grand dames of the Second Empire were made.

TINY COOKIES

There are times when nearly every woman wants "just something" to serve to a large group of women in the afternoon. The hostess without a maid may find even a cup of tea too much of an undertaking for a large number of guests and will prefer something that can be prepared and placed on plates ready to serve before the meeting begins.

Home-made candy is always appreciated but this involves hours of tedious as well as hard work, so why not serve one of the following delectable sweetmeats? These are about two bites more than candy but are quite rich and sweet enough to serve as a confection without tea.

This rule for "Hard Tack" will serve about thirty persons.

HARD TACK

Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 cup dates, 1 cup walnut meats, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Beat eggs until light with a Dover beater. Beat in sugar. Sift soda with flour and salt. Beat into first mixture. Add dates stoned and cut in small pieces, and nuts chopped or cut in small pieces. Mix well and spread very thinly on the bottom of a well oiled and floured dripping pan or cookie sheet. Bake twelve minutes in a hot oven. Remove from oven, cut in long narrow bars and let cool on the molding board.

A plate of hard tack and cocoanut macaroons makes an attractive combination.

COCOANUT MACAROONS

Two eggs (whites), 1/2 cup shredded cocoanut, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar. Put in top of double boiler over hot water. When lukewarm add cocoanut, cornstarch and vanilla. Mix well and drop from a small spoon onto sheets of oiled paper. Bake in a slow oven until tops are lightly browned.

MARGUERITES

One egg (white), 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 cup chopped nut meats, 1/2 cup chopped and seeded raisins, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat white of egg until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar. Stir in nuts and raisins and spread on crackers. Bake in a hot oven until brown.

Another cracker goodie is made with marshmallows. Small square or round wafers are chosen for these. Cut marshmallows in halves. Put half a nut meat in the center of each wafer, cover with half a marshmallow and put in a hot oven or under the broiler to brown and puff the mallow. These are prepared, all but the browning, early in the day.

BATIK TURBANS

Attractive turbans are made of printed or batik velvet, the colors being soft and blurred rather than striking.

SQUARE NECKS

Square necks are seen on the youthful frocks of black velvet, with very full or slightly draped skirts.

BAGS MATCH COATS

Very swagger indeed are the fur bags to match sport coats of fur. These of leopard and moleskin are particularly smart.

TWO-TIERED COLLARS

Collars and cuffs of fine, organdie are made in two tiers, each edge bound with a narrow band of color.

GREEN AND WHITE

A frock of green jersey has attractive collars and cuffs of green and white puffed gingham and a green suede belt.

HALF VEILS

Turbans of metal cloth are frequently worn with small veils that fall just over the eyes.

Child Shouldn't Choose Things He Would Like To Eat At Mealtime

Milk, Fruit, Cereals And Bread And Butter Are Healthy Foods To Include In Menu—None Should Omit Breakfast

To the busy mother with children going to school every morning, this article is written.

A child should never be permitted to omit his breakfast if he is expected to have good health. What shall the mother feed her growing children for breakfast? That should be very easy to answer. It is really a simple matter to choose proper food for this meal.

MILK

First of all, every child should have whole fresh milk. This should not be omitted if the meal is to be properly balanced. It supplies the building materials necessary to make flesh and muscle, bone, teeth and some energy. Tea and coffee should never be allowed, though properly prepared cocoa is permissible occasionally.

FRUIT

Second—Fruit, either fresh or stewed, should be included in every breakfast possible. Fresh fruit is not a luxury when one considers how greatly it adds to the health value of the meal. It is most valuable in regulating the processes of the body.

Half an orange, a baked or fresh apple, apple sauce, stewed figs, raisins or prunes, grapefruit, baked pears, are good for children and appeal to them.

CEREAL

Third—A serving of cooked cereal. Fortunately there is a variety and the different cereals can be served plain or with raisins, figs or other suitable fruits, occasionally for variety. Some of the best cereals are oatmeal, ground whole wheat, rice, barley and cornmeal. The child should be taught that clean hands are necessary and not merely a whim of a fastidious mother. It is not a matter of appearance entirely—dirt brings disease and food handled by dirty hands carries germs into the mouth.

Another matter of importance is teaching the child to eat the right kinds of food. He should not be consulted as to what he wishes. He is not capable of judging. He should be taught to eat what is served him.

Magnus Has Boss And He Obeys Her Orders

Washington — Yes, Magnus Johnson has a boss!

All through his strenuous campaign days, Minnesota's new dirt farmer senator, denied the bosses held any sway over him.

But now he admits there is one person in all the world from whom he has to take orders. And that is his wife.

"But she's the only boss I've had since I quit glass blowing," says Magnus apologetically. "And she is the best boss any fellow ever had."

Mrs. Johnson, now comfortably settled in her new home in Tacoma, Park, admits she doesn't look upon her stay in Washington with the same anticipation most women would.

"You know," she declares, "I wouldn't consent to come here at all until Magnus promised he would get me a cow and some chickens and not insist on me going to receptions and the other parties senator's wives usually are eager to attend."

Mrs. Johnson, though, is a close student of political affairs. There never is a question that will affect the mothers of the country, or the women voters as a whole, upon which she isn't versed.

And Magnus always talks these things over with her before he makes up his mind just how he will stand on it.

CORNISH CHICKEN PASTIES
Good pie pastry
1/2 cup minced sausage
1/2 teaspoon paprika
Cream or melted butter
Paprika and salt
2 cups minced chicken
2-3 cup cream sauce
1/2 cup fine cracker crumbs
Parsley or thyme
Roll the pastry about one-fourth inch thick and cut with a sharp knife into squares. Place in the center of each square the chicken mixture well seasoned with salt, paprika and any herbs preferred, or a few drops of onion juice if liked. Use cream or melted butter to moisten the mixture. The above amount of ingredients should fill six or eight pasties. Fold over the pastry into triangle form, crimping the edges with a silver fork. Brush over with white of egg, and bake 20 minutes in oven, or until a nice golden brown. Minced turkey or veal may be substituted for the chicken. If you do not wish them so rich, white sauce may be used instead of the cream sauce. A few chopped mushrooms may be added instead of herbs, or a few chopped oysters instead of the sausage.—From the Designer Magazine.

Household Suggestions

POTATO WATER

Potato water applied on a soft cloth is excellent for cleaning spoons and knives that have become discolored.

CUSTARDS

Warm the milk before adding it to the egg when you make a custard and no water will settle in the bottom of the dish.

YELLOWED CLOTHES

Clothes that are yellow from lying around should be clipped in boiling water and dashed with oxalic acid.

FINE CHINA

Never wash fine china with scouring soap, soap powder or with yellow resin soap.

BROKEN CHINA

You can mend thin china with white of egg and quicklime. Beat the egg stiff, coat the clean edges thickly with it and dust with powdered unbleached flint, then press together at once and set firm.

LAUNDRY CABINET

Have a laundry cabinet in your laundry and in it keep your starch.

soap, bluing, javelle water for stains, soap powder, washing soda and sandpaper.

If you are dyeing lace tack it to strips of cloth and leave them there until they are through washing and pressing.

MARKED HANDKERCHIEFS

If you starch your handkerchiefs very stiff before marking them with indelible ink the ink will not run and you can make smaller and neater letters.

ILL REPUTE OF OPAL BLAMED ON NOVELIST

Chicago — Opals have lived down the superstition of bad luck long associated with them and have become today one of the most fashionable and popular of gems. P. J. Coffey, president of the National Jewelers Association, said in an address at the annual meeting of the organization here.

"Most people assume that the idea of bad luck attaching to the opal is of immemorial antiquity," said Mr. Coffey. "The fact is it is less than a century old. Sir Walter Scott, in one of his last novels, 'Anne of Geierstein,' published in 1829, set the myth going. He introduced into his romance an imaginary opal to which he attributed a mystic malignancy that worked misfortune upon all who wore it. This fiction was the only basis the superstition ever had. But the wide vogue of Sir Walter as a novelist sent the myth broadcast to the ends of the earth. For centuries before his time the opal had been endowed in popular imagination with the beneficent properties of a talisman.

"There is no authentic record in all history that an opal ever brought misfortune to any one. No tragedy was ever associated with it except that wrought by this fanciful idea in putting into eclipse one of the world's most resplendent jewels and preventing a popularity it otherwise would have enjoyed."

One night, little Jimmie saw a pot of coffee boiling on the stove. He asked his mother for it. She refused, of course. And the boy ran to the stove, tilted the coffee pot and tried to drink from the spout.

His throat was so severely scalded that all the heroic efforts of many doctors couldn't save him. He died 12 hours later.

Opener Of Mat SeasonNew London Wrestler And Former Wisconsin Mentor
Seek Chance To Make Home
In Appleton

Mike Stein of New London has been chosen from the field of candidates to meet "Kid" Hanson in the opening event of the wrestling card scheduled for Appleton on Friday, Dec. 14. His determination to win and his willingness to meet anyone at all to show what he can do, helped the local managers in making their choice as much as his husky appearance, judging from his previous battles, he is well matched with Hanson. While he has met defeat on several occasions, the number of his victories offsets his losses by a big margin. Mike is a big man, and looks as though he could crush a bear in his arms, but when he meets Hanson, he will have a man's size job on his hands and will have to use all of his strength and tricks. As he is banking on this match to get him in solid with the local fans so that it will be worth his while to settle down here, he may be depended upon to do his utmost.

The "Kid" is determined to establish himself here also, and realizes that the loser will not have much of a following. The match, therefore, means a great deal more than just a victory to the two wrestlers, and both will be there to give their audience a first class exhibition.

Stein is very cocky over his prospects. He knows Hanson's record, but in spite of that feels he will have little trouble in wearing him down. That he knows the mat game is evident from his many press notices. Whether he is good enough to down the mighty Hanson, however, will be in doubt until the two have met.

GREB AND TUNNEY

heavyweight Crown

By Associated Press
New York—Gene Tunney, of Greenwich Village and Harry Greb of Pittsburgh met in a blood-drenched bout Monday night at Madison Square garden for the third time, with the light-heavyweight boxing championship of the United States at stake.

Greb took the title from Tunney on a decision in their first bout, and Gene regained it by a decision at their second meeting. Since then the Pittsburgher has taken the world's middleweight title from Johnson Wilson of Boston.

WRECK VICTIM WAS OLD STAR PITCHER

New York—William B. (Wild Bill) Donovan, killed in the New York Central wreck near Forsythe N. Y., while en route to attend the baseball meeting at Chicago, was one of the best known men in baseball, having been a great pitcher and major and minor league manager. He was the manager of the New York Yankees in 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918, when he was succeeded by Miller Huggins. In 1921 he managed the Philadelphia National league club, but stepped down before the season was over. He had managed the Jersey City club after leaving the Yankees. He led the New Haven club to a pennant in the Eastern league last season, but had been released since the close of the season.

Wild Bill was with the Detroit Tigers under Hugh Jennings in the three years that Jennings won pennants for the Tigers—in 1907, 1908, and 1909. Donovan figured in several great world's series games. He was a pitcher in the Philadelphia forty-six years ago and began playing baseball on the sand lots. He began his professional career with the Hartford club of the Eastern league. He joined the Washington club when the club then was in the twelve club National league. Despite his wisdom, a pitcher for going to pieces in the pinches, Donovan rose to the highest position in pitching circles when he was sent to the Brooklyn club in 1890, after the break up of the twelve club National league.

Donovan played with the Dodgers until 1902 and then jumped to the Detroit club of the American league when that circuit invaded the big league field. Donovan remained with the Detroit club until 1912 when he was given his unconditional release.

He then became manager of the Providence club in two years he won a pennant in Providence.

LAWRENCE FROSH
WIN CAGE TITLE

Classmen in Playoff Of Tourney

A. C. Denney, Lawrence athletic director and coach, has cut his string of basketball candidates down to 25 men, and is putting them through "dry" workouts at Army G in preparation for one of the hardest schedules in the history of the school. Inexperience and lack of teamwork are the chief obstacles which Denney will have to overcome, and in view of that fact he is drilling his men intensively to teach them to handle themselves and the ball correctly.

In the final playoff for the class championship Friday afternoon, the Freshmen defeated the Sophomores, 12 to 12, and the Juniors, 10 to 9, thereby taking the school title.

The Fresh and Sophomores were matched in the first game when the Juniors drew a "bye", and defeated the second year men by a close margin after establishing a considerable lead in the first half. The Sophomores put up a stiff fight, and threatened to tie the score several times.

The Freshman Junior match was even closer and more exciting than the previous one. The Freshmen went in with an entirely new lineup, and played the Juniors to a standstill. The result of the contest was in doubt to the last minute however, and when the Freshmen had won, 10 to 9, they admitted that the fight had been their hardest of the tournament.

The lineups: Freshmen—Clark, Cosbab, F. Cokson, Grove, G. Kanuse, C. Sophomores—Merris, Kozel, F. Zussman, Feldhausen, G. Boehme, C. Freshmen—Heidemann, C. B. Briesse, Ashman, G. Dunn, C. Juniors—Packard, Hulbert, F. Christoph, Offson, Kubitz, G. Cooke, C.

Tilden Row May End Secrecy
In Picking Doubles Champs

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Out of the current acrimonious and childish controversy involving William Tilden, II, in this corner, goes the Davis Cup Committee, in that corner will come definite and needed reform. The silly secrecy which has habitually cloaked the selection of the doubles defending team in the past will be abolished.

Whether Tilden, greatest tennis player of his time, has a just quarrel with the committee men, or their spokesman, Harold Macrett, himself a former champion, is not of great interest to the tennis world.

Hackett has charged that Tilden considered himself above advice in connection with the doubles match against the vanquished Australian team last summer. Tilden, in rebuttal, exudes the intimation that he was asked to employ the strategy of a generation ago.

To those who observe from the sidelines the affair has all the fragrance of a school-boy debate over the rightful ownership of a bright red lollipop. What makes the affair important is that it promises to bring to a head the need of certain progressive changes in the conduct of the Davis cup preliminaries.

It seems to us that Tilden is absolutely right in his stand that the identity of the doubles team should be made public two or four weeks in advance of the championship tournament. We see neither rhyme nor reason in withholding the names of the players until 12 or 35 hours before the match.

CARR AND PINDLE
MEET BAY CUEISTS
IN SECOND BLOCKAppleton Has Good Prospects Of Repeating Win
Wednesday Night

Wednesday evening Eugene Carr and Harold Pindle meet Fisk and Engels, Green Bay cue stars, in the second block of their 150 point 3-cushion billiard tournament at the Carr and Hanson parlors here.

In their last match, the Appleton team defeated the Baymen after a hard-fought game, in which the veteran Carr starred with a high run of seven, and made 32 of the 50 points which won the game. Carr has been handicapped since Noah camped on him at Ararat, and there are few tricks not included in his repertoire. His steady help considerably in the last year's victory, the Green Bay team finding it impossible to successfully play off his tight leaves. Pindle is comparatively new at 3-cushion, but the experience he boasts in pocket billiards makes him a dangerous opponent for any player.

LIQUID OXYGEN TO

CHEAPEN BLASTING

Mexican Mines Have Adopted New Explosive And Find It Efficient

Washington — The use of liquid oxygen as an excellent and cheap explosive in salt, metal and other non-gaseous mines and in quarry and other outside blasting, is recommended by the United States Bureau of Mines after a series of tests. Preliminary experiments in this novel explosive, conducted at the bureau's experimental station at Pittsburgh, indicate that it may be used to advantage where dusts and gases are not present, but is especially useful elsewhere in lessening the cost of blasting.

While liquid oxygen has not been used in this country so far for this purpose, it is already widely used in Mexican mines, has been employed in large quantities in the Upper Silurian mines of Germany since the war, and has been adapted to tunnel work, iron mining, subway and excavation work in cities in that country. It was used not only in Germany but in the French mines of Lorraine after the German seizure, and applied by them also to the destruction of French steel plants. French officials of the Briey iron district believe the explosive has come to stay, and the bureau is conducting negotiations with Alaskan companies for its adoption there.

One advantage is that it can be prepared on the job at low cost after the erection of compressing plants, which will make it of special value in Alaska. As liquid oxygen can be made at the place of consumption, dangers common to the transportation of other explosives can be done away with. Low production cost, lessening the cost of use of material blasted, is another advantage. In the use of liquid oxygen explosives there is practically no danger of premature ignition, it was found. The danger of misfires, too, is eliminated by a war of 30 or 40 minutes after the fuse is lighted, when practically all of the oxygen will have evaporated. Another advantage is the elimination of the danger of unexploded sticks in shoveling and subsequent handling of coal or ore going out of the mine. Other sources of danger avoided are the handling and thawing processes such as are necessary with frozen dynamite and the danger from lightning or fire when stored.

But there are certain disadvantages in the use of this explosive, the bureau says. Because of its rapid evaporation liquid oxygen must be used quickly and within a definite time after the hole is charged, thus limiting the number of holes that can be fired simultaneously, although in Germany as many as 75 have been fired at once. Its use virtually requires the installation of a liquidating plant at considerable first cost, and this plant must be kept running regularly to obtain low cost explosives as the main cost is in the power used.

That the power of liquid oxygen as an explosive is favorably comparable with other explosives is shown in the fact that 5,000,000 pounds of liquid oxygen are equal to 8,000,000 pounds of dynamite.

One of the interesting features of the high test of this explosive in Germany has been the designing of small portable liquid oxygen making plants to produce three liters an hour. Such plants have been constructed to move about on trucks, making the material much more available for small operators.

WALLACE SAYS
FARM INCOMES
WILL INCREASE

Report Of Secretary Of Agriculture Shows Marked Improvement

Washington—The general farm income of the country will be considerably greater for 1923 than for last year, probably by more than one and a quarter billion dollars, and farmers generally are better off actually and relatively, Secretary Wallace of the agricultural department informed President Coolidge in his annual report.

There was marked improvement in agriculture during the year, higher prices for crops, lower cost of production, and some reduction in the prices of the things farmers buy, Secretary Wallace said, but at the same time he told of many adverse conditions facing the farmers and made recommendations for their betterment. He discussed the wheat situation at some length and outlined his plan for a government agency with broad powers to buy and export surpluses not only of wheat but of pork and other farm products.

"The general agricultural improvement is most gratifying to everybody and gives renewed hope to millions of farmers who have struggled against more distressing conditions," Mr. Wallace told the president. "This does not warrant the assumption, however, that the state of agriculture in all sections is now satisfactory. In many regions agriculture still is at a disadvantage."

"The ratio between prices of most farm products and prices of other commodities is still far out of line. Industrial wages continue at war-time levels and thus help to maintain high prices for most things the farmer buys. High freight rates still prevail, and, while not the cause of low farm prices, place one more additional burden upon the farmer which he can all afford to pay in view of the prices he must take for his products, also they place him at a disadvantage with his foreign competitor in world markets in farm products we export.

"Unfavorable exchange with European countries, together with financial difficulties in those countries which need our surplus make it more difficult for them to buy and our export outlet for farm commodities is narrowing. Aside from this difficult situation it is to be expected that as the countries of Europe get on their feet, they will strive to produce more of the things they need and buy less from us, and this must be considered in planning our future production."

"The costs of retail distribution of farm products are unreasonably large thus enhancing the price to the consumer and depriving the farmer of the benefit of increased consumption which ought to follow lower prices which result from large production."

"Studies indicate that 42 per cent of the farmers feel that their financial difficulties are due to low prices of farm products; to high taxes 17 per cent; high cost of farm labor, 11 per cent; high freight rates, 10 per cent; high interest, 10 per cent; reckless expenditures during boom period, 6 per cent; and too much credit, 4 per cent."

A very complete report on the wheat situation in all of its aspects has been prepared by his department, Secretary Wallace said. He discussed the many suggestions of ways to aid the wheat growers out of their present distressing situation.
